FINNS REPORT 2,800 RED SOLDIERS KILLED

Sweden Prepared for Action

Sweden's air force is numerically small but the planes are of the best quality and its personnel well-trained and well-equipped. Gen. Torsten Friis, Swedish aviation chief, is pictured above inspecting some of his aerial warriors. Stockholm reports that, despite denial of open military aid to Finland by the government, a fleet of Swedish-manned planes will soon be flown to the beleaguered country. Chief of staff of Sweden's army is General Per Sylvan (pictured below).

N. Y. POLICE STYMIED IN GIRL'S SLAYING

Two Men Released After All-Night Questioning.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—All-night questioning of two men left police on a dead-end trail today in their effort to solve the death of Frances Marks, a 23-year-old bookkeeper who left her home eight months ago to "do better things."

The frozen and bruised body of the curly-haired girl was found yesterday morning, shoeless and hatless, in a sewer ditch on the upper East Side.

Police quizzed two men through the night but released both this morning. One of the two said he saw the girl leave the garage where she worked shortly after midnight Wednesday, after four hours of overtime work.

There was no clue to what happened to her in the four blocks between the garage and the spot where her body was found ten hours later.

BELLEFONTAINE MAN TO RUN FOR APPEALS COURT

George Middleton, 53, a Bellefontaine attorney, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the Third district court of appeals, The Associated Press reported from Lima. Marion is part of the district served by the court.

He will seek the seat now held by Phil M. Crow of Kenton, Democrat, who is finishing his 12th year on the bench. Judge Crow recently announced his candidacy for reelection.

16 FIREMEN INJURED IN CINCINNATI BLAZE

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23—Sixteen firemen were injured, some severely early today in fighting a general alarm blaze that swept two stores on Upper Reading road, an outlying business section.

Among victims was Assistant Chief Edward Shearwood, held for X-ray examination of head and chest injuries.

Some were overcome by smoke, others were caught in wreckage when a section of concrete and marble flooring gave way shortly after 3 a. m.

COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD REHIRED

Board Votes D. T. Mills New Contract for 3-Year Period.

D. T. Mills of 707 Girard avenue, now completing his eighth year as Marion county school superintendent, was rehired for a three-year term when members of the county board of education met last night in the school office.

Mr. Mills' salary was fixed at $4,000 annually, an increase from $3,900. The total salary includes $300 allotted yearly as an expense account.

Before coming to Marion 12 years ago to take the position of principal at Agosta High school, where he served four years, Mr. Mills was principal of a Piqua county school four years.

Other matters handled by the board included approval of appropriations for routine expenses during the year. The board heard a report by Superintendent Mills on various phases of county school work, including the vocational testing program, growth of vocational departments and increase in the number of resident music teachers.

Members of the board are John W. Ruth of Green Camp, president; C. M. Kline of Claridon, vice president; B. H. Gast of Prospect, Robert H. Allen of Caledonia and Dr. J. M. Ruckman of LaRue.

"G. W. T. W." Problem Solved

Theater Holds Ticket Money So Patron Won't Spend It.

Employes of the Palace theater who have been kept busy with the advance sale of "Gone With the Wind" tickets yesterday solved an unusual problem in an unusual way.

A customer plunked 75 cents down on the box office counter, asked for a reserved seat for the morning matinee next Thursday and appeared disappointed—almost despondent—when informed that seats are being reserved for the afternoon and evening performances but not for the morning shows.

"Well, I want to see that picture and I'm afraid I won't have any money left by next Thursday," he told the cashier.

The cashier went into a huddle with other employes and finally reached a solution: they took his money and put it in an envelope. Next Thursday morning he can call at the box office, claim his money and purchase his ticket in the usual manner.

DEATH PENALTY FIXED IN INSURANCE MURDER

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Paul Petrillo, dapper little South Philadelphia tailor who police say was a ringleader of Philadelphia's murder-for-insurance plots was adjudged guilty of first degree murder today and sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Petrillo pleaded guilty last September to the insurance slaying of Luigi La Vecchia, a neighbor. Testimony at several of the mass murder case trials linked him with other killings and investigators said he was one of the chief plotters of a widespread murder "syndicate" [illegible]

ALLIES SET UP BLOCKADE ON SOVIET COAST

Northern Ports Watched To Halt Flow of Goods to Germany.

By The Associated Press

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 24 — A British-French warship squadron began today a blockade of the northern Russian coast, the newspaper Berlingske Tidende reported, while unconfirmable rumors circulated that a clash with the Soviet Arctic navy already had been precipitated.

The paper said the allied ships were strung out for a considerable distance along the Arctic coast to prevent shipment of Russian supplies to Germany and to halt any possible attempt to deliver Russian submarines to the German navy.

Presence of allied vessels in that far north vicinity was confirmed yesterday.

Rumors of Conflict

There were rumors that the blockading war vessels already had come into conflict with Soviet naval craft, but there was no confirmation of this.

Aside from blocking trade between Germany and her friends, Russia, the British and French were described as aiming to prevent any German ships from taking refuge in Russia—as a number of merchantmen did in the early days of the war.

Until now, it was reported that German merchant carriers had been maintaining steady connections with Murmansk, which is an ice-free port despite its Arctic location on Kola bay.

Development of the blockade magnified uneasiness of Scandinavian nations over the future of their neutrality.

In view of the bad feeling that resulted from British rescue of captive merchant seamen from the German ship Altmark in Norwegian waters last Friday night, there were apprehensions that any new naval clashes in northern waters would raise further knotty and embarrassing problems for the neutrals.

Watch Norway Coast

The British and French contend that Norway's coastline, broken by fjords and screened by offshore islands, offers a comparatively safe highway for German ships from Murmansk and has been used effectively to evade their blockade in the North sea.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet reported yesterday that the Russian Arctic navy had been prepared for the possibility of a war and that Admiral Nikolai Kuznetzoff, naval affairs commissar, had flown to Murmansk to inspect it.

The Scandinavian countries are coming to the foreboding view that almost anything can happen in the waters of northern Europe.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter voiced the hope that the Scandinavian foreign ministers, who are to confer in Copenhagen Saturday and Sunday, would agree on uniform rules for the treatment of belligerents' ships in territorial waters.

RAINBOW VETERANS MARK ANNIVERSARY

Arrival at Front Line Recalled at Dinner Meeting.

Observance of the twenty-second anniversary of their introduction to the front line trenches of the World war was marked when members of Dyer J. Bird Chapter of the Ohio Rainbow Division held a dinner meeting last night at Hotel Marion.

The program was given over largely to reminiscences of events which transpired Feb. 22, 1918, when the servicemen got their baptism of front line activity in the trenches of France. W. H. Willis, past president of the chapter, was master of ceremonies.

Similar observances were held throughout Ohio by other chapters of the Rainbow Division. Twenty-five members attended the dinner here, representing several companies, Company D of Marion, Company A of Cardington, Company K of Delaware and Company L of Lancaster.

Mr. Willis was chairman in charge of arrangements, assisted by Fred F. Miller and W. M. Laughman.

DUNCAN C. M'CREA

FRED W. FRAHM

Ex-Police Head and Prosecutor Answer Charges

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Feb. 23 — Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea and Fred W. Frahm, recently deposed Detroit police superintendent, indicted Wednesday by a special grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to operate and protect a baseball pool, surrendered for arraignment today.

McCrea took the occasion to announce himself a candidate for the United States senate.

With his customary aplomb, he said he would seek the Democratic nomination next September for the seat now held by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican.

Frahm, first to appear, was accompanied by two attorneys. "I hope the public will withhold judgment until all the facts are known," Frahm said.

McCrea appeared a few minutes later with his attorney, George M. Clark, former Michigan supreme court justice, and Mrs. McCrea.

Detective James Bennett and Harry F. Colburn, chief investigator for the prosecutor's office, completed the group scheduled for arraignment today before Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, who handed down the indictments.

Judge Ferguson said he would seek McCrea's removal as Wayne county prosecutor.

Action for McCrea's removal was expected to come through a petition to Governor Luren D. Dickinson.

A conference in Lansing was scheduled between grand jury officials and Michigan Attorney General Thomas Read to determine procedure for prosecuting defendants named in the indictments. State intervention in other cases pending in Wayne county loomed as a possibility.

"Public confidence in law enforcement agencies must not be allowed to suffer because of this unfortunate development," said Read's deputy, Willard J. McIntyre.

McCrea, Frahm, Bennett and Colburn all stood mute and pleas of innocent were entered in their behalf. Bonds for all four were set at $1,000 each.

ACCUSED MURDERER PUTS BLAME ON PAL

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23—Joseph Di Marco, 23, one of two Brooklyn men being tried on first degree murder charges for the hold-up-slaying of a Euclid avenue furrier, declared today his companion forced him by threats to continue a life of crime.

Di Marco and Anthony Cirasole, 29, who preceded him on the stand, are charged with the fatal shooting Jan. 24 of Edward J. Erbody, former Warren, O., resident, in Erbody's store. They were captured after a bullet-marked automobile pursuit.

Di Marco said he and Cirasole joined forces last September. They have admitted a dozen robberies in New York, Detroit and Cleveland.

Britain Heaps Honors On Victors Over Graf Spee

King and Commoner Pay Tribute to Sailors Who Fought In Battle of Montevideo.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 23—King and commoner of this island power today acclaimed 760 veterans of the battle of Montevideo, which resulted in the destruction of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, as they paraded before the greatest crowd of cheering Britons since the coronation.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, told them their victory "warmed the cockles of British hearts" but sobered his listeners by saying 3,000 compatriots had lost their lives in the "hard and unrelenting struggle on the sea."

He spoke at a banquet in the guild hall for the seamen from the cruisers Exeter and Ajax after their triumphal parade and bestowal of decorations by King George VI in a ceremony at the horseguards' parade.

Accompanied by Prime Minister Chamberlain, the king inspected the veterans and awarded decorations not only to officers and men of the two cruisers but to widows of several sailors.

Given Riotous Greeting

Londoners who had waited more than five hours broke police lines to give the men a tumultous greeting.

The king shook hands and spoke warmly to Mrs. W. Russell, widow of a marine, in presenting her the conspicuous gallantry medal.

Russell's citation said he refused first aid when his arms were shattered and remained on his feet exhorting his comrades until he died.

Police had difficulty in controlling the huge street throngs. Service volunteers aided the regular forces.

While honors were being heaped on the men for the victory last Dec. 13 off the Uruguayan coast, the Achilles, third of the three British cruisers in the Graf Spee battle, arrived today at Auckland, New Zealand, to the acclaim of thousands who lined the shore to cheer her men.

Air Ministry Reports

The air ministry announced today that British planes which scouted Helgoland bight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning bombed German warships and fought off enemy fighting planes.

The Berlin communique of Wednesday said that early that morning "enemy planes from the west and northwest" flew over Helgoland bight, strategic waters off the northwest German coast, but mentioned nothing of results.

The British that day reported a successful reconnaissance of Helgoland bight by several British planes.

German planes resumed forays today after the shooting down of two Nazi planes yesterday in raids on the British east coast. One plane was reported off Essex today and another off Norfolk.

Anti-aircraft guns greeted the first plane, which was reported, although without immediate confirmation, to have been shot down. British fighter planes pursued the second.

Plane Flies Low

A third German bomber flew over Sunderland on the coast of Durham so low that witnesses could discern the Swastika painted on it.

The air ministry, meanwhile, announced that royal air force planes had carried out reconnaissance over Austria and Bohemia last night. It gave no details of the flight, the second excursion so deep into Germany to be announced.

German raiders invaded British territory yesterday and sank the 540-ton naval trawler Fifeshire with the probable loss of 21 men aboard. Only one was known to have been saved.

Welles Will Meet Hitler On Tour of War Capitals

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Feb. 23 — United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, on his way to Europe to study conditions in the belligerent and other capitals, will have a conference with Fuehrer Hitler when he comes here, it was disclosed today.

United States Charge d'Affaires Alexander Kirk visited the German secretary of state, Baron Ernst Von Weizsaecker, for 40 minutes today, apparently in connection with Welles' visit.

Although the visit was described by an embassy spokesman as "purely routine," it was known that a tentative program was agreed upon for the visit of Welles, who is due to arrive in Italy Sunday night.

Assuming that Welles reaches Berlin by next Tuesday, it was tentatively agreed today that he would meet German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop on Tuesday or Wednesday and that immediately after would follow a conference with Hitler.

HARDIN CO. WOMEN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Two in Hospital After Accident Near Delaware.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Feb. 23 — Two Hardin county women are in McKitrick hospital at Kenton today and two others suffered minor injuries in a truck-automobile collision four miles north of Delaware on state route 23, Thursday morning.

Mrs. Dobbie Graham, 66, suffered a compound fracture of the left shoulder, and Miss Gail Kurtz, 40, suffered a possible fractured pelvis. Both are in McKitrick hospital. Their companions, all of Forest and vicinity, Mrs. Valentine Hainen and Mrs. Verbal Stauffer, suffered painful bruises and cuts.

Rev. Valentine Hainen of Forest, driver of the car in which the women were riding, escaped with bruises. The truck which figured in the accident was operated by Eugene Willey of near Delaware.

Both vehicles were southbound and the accident occurred as Mr. Willey attempted to turn into a driveway, it was reported by a deputy from the Delaware county sheriff's office.

The injured women were taken to the Kenton hospital by the Robinson-Brackney ambulance.

TRAFFIC TAG ROUNDUP SET

Police To Bring In Those Who Fail To Appear In Court with Tickets.

Declaring it is unfair for only a few of the many motorists who are given traffic tags to appear in court to be fined, Municipal Judge Hazen today excused all six drivers who answered the roll call of offenders this morning.

He had read off a list of about 25 names of persons who had received tickets during the week and had been directed to appear in court Friday, but only six answered.

The judge said he had conferred with the police department on the matter and will turn over to the police the names of the 19 or 20 drivers who failed to report. The police will trail down the absentees and give them citations, Chief Marks said. If the drivers then fail to appear in court, they will be brought in by the police, the chief said.

Troublesome Problem

Both the police department and the court are concerned over the traffic tag situation, complicated by many factors. Not the least of these is the policy of the state bureau of motor vehicles in permitting car owners to buy licenses wherever they wish and also in issuing "trick" licenses, bearing special numbers, initials and the like. These are difficult for police to trace since the only public record of ownership is at Columbus. Thus when such automobiles are tagged, very often the court does not have the name of the owner when traffic court convenes, and the driver avoids the penalty.

What will be done in the future is uncertain, but Judge Hazen said he does not want motorists to get the mistaken impression that he will excuse all violators.

Helsinki Declares Attacks All Along Line Are Thrown Back Today.

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Feb. 23—The Finnish high command announced today that the Mannerheim line's defenders had beaten back attacks along the entire width of the Karelian isthmus, killing about two battalions — perhaps 2,000 men—at one point and 800 men at another.

The daily communique showed that the invading Russians were pushing forward deeper into the center of the line beyond Lake Muola.

The two battalions were "killed" in two attacks north of Lake Muola near Lake Ayrapaan, the communique said, while 800 men were killed and 100 taken prisoner in a third attack across the Lake Ayrapaan at Sikniemi.

The Finns said they beat back continuing attacks all along the line eastward to Taipale, at its extremity.

Take War Materials

Northeast of Lake Ladoga the Finns captured "large quantities of war material," the communique said, and wiped out patrols further north near Kuhmo.

The Finns reported a Russian raid on the town of Iisalmi, behind the lines along Finland's narrow "waist," in which 12 women and children were killed, and another raid in this region in which "a few parachute patrols" were dropped, "which were either killed or taken prisoner."

Even with a sudden smash through the Mannerheim line, the Russian invaders would be forced to battle for every foot of Finnish soil, a military informant declared as the Red army went into its twenty-third day of assaults on the Karelian isthmus.

Attack Near Viipuri

The Finns confirmed that the Soviet forces were attacking in the region of Kamara, a dozen miles southeast of Viipuri, but reported the defensive lines eastward to Lake Ladoga were holding fast.

They already had acknowledged semi-officially that on the west, near the gulf of Finland, Viipuri could be counted a definite part of the front lines. (A Russian communique said the advance had reached to within six miles of Viipuri.)

Fighting, however, was in progress across the isthmus, the narrow bridge of land which is Russia's most direct connection to populous southern Finland.

A Russian victory here, said foreign military observers, would allow the Red army to form a wider front and maneuver infantry more readily than in the comparatively restricted confines of the isthmus.

They still would have no easy path, the observers said, for behind the Mannerheim line's forts and trenches is a network of marshy lakes. The usual spring rains would make this area of great defensive value.

Marion will have its first glimpse of the epic "Gone With the Wind" Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Palace theater. The picture will be shown at night at 8 and every afternoon and night next week through Friday, at the same hours.

Seats may still be reserved for any of the performances, Manager George E. Planck said today. Seat sale has been surprisingly brisk, according to the manager, but good seats yet remain. No seats will be served for the showings Thursday and Friday at 10 a. m.

"Whatever problems we had on 'Gone With the Wind' were inconsequential alongside of that matter of creating a story to satisfy the world's greatest pre-sold critical audience any film ever had," Director Victor Fleming said after the picture was completed.

Strive For Authenticity

"Miss Mitchell had told us what would be authentic and we had to duplicate it. We had no authority to heighten any situation or minimize any other. We could not change simply for effect. We were not making a picture to please an author or a cast of characters. Our thought had to be on a public which was rabid on the subject."

There's a real Rhett, from Charleston, S. C., home of the fictional Rhett Butler, in the picture. She is Alicia Rhett, descendant of a family long famous in southern history and it is her first part in pictures. It was Miss Rhett's family, so the story goes, that contributed one-half of the fictional Rhett Butler's name. She plays the role of India Wilkes, sister of Ashley Wilkes, portrayed by Leslie Howard, and her first day on the set was spent playing a scene with Clark Gable.

Flight From Atlanta

Filming of the flight from Atlanta when Sherman started his march to the sea, required three days, after months of preparation. Each article shown in the flight was authentically of the period, according to the producers.

The child who is cast as Bonnie Blue Butler, daughter of Rhett and Scarlett, is Cammie King, 4, daughter of a Los Angeles elocution teacher. After more than 250 children had been tested for the part, Cammie's 7-year-old sister who is an experienced child actress, got her the job.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Looking Backward

I RECENTLY described my visit to the oldest hospital on the North American continent—the Hospital of Jesus in Mexico City. On my way to Mexico I paused in New Orleans and visited the oldest hospital in the United States—the Charity Hospital. (The second and third oldest hospitals in North America are in Canada.)

There is some partisan dispute as to which is the oldest hospital in the United States, some claiming the honor for the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia. The Philadelphians say that the Charity was first an almshouse and only later a hospital, but the record shows that as early as May 20, 1737, there were five patients under treatment at the Charity.

In 1736, a sailor, Jean Louis, died in New Orleans, leaving all his estate to found a haven for the city's poor. They were to be given suitable work "so there would be no mendicant." In 1779 the old hosypital was destroyed by a hurricane, but in 1782 the gift of over $100,000 by the richest citizen of the New World provided a new building, with much of the debris of the old being used. The calamity of fire destroyed it in 1809, but it was again rebuilt near Rampart street. Within the past few years it has moved to Tulane avenue, in fine new quarters.

Famous Doctor

The most famous of its doctors was David C. Kerwas. He was attached to the invading British army in 1814, but allowed himself to be captured by Andrew Jackson's troops at the Battle of New Orleans because he felt his future was in the United States.

The old records show some things strange to modern eyes. The hospital was the largest dispensatory for alcoholic drinks in the city in 1832, and made a large part of its income by operating as a saloon. The expenditures at this time included $208 for candles of sperm whale fat, $202 for leeches to bleed patients with, and $111 for surgical instruments. This scanty allowance is accounted for by the fact that each surgeon provided his own instruments and was very proud of them and the case that held them.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Out Of Danger

AS I turned to leave I heard the Sergeant calling me from the stairway. Explanations were getting to be second nature, so it took me only a few minutes to tell him the little I knew. I said I wasn't at all certain when I first heard the sound of the engine. I was afraid to ask who had been found in the garage.

"Well, that's that," he said. "It's a good thing you heard it. He'll pull through."

So the man was alive. "Who is it?" I finally said.

"Whitefield."

"Why—how—?"

"That's what I'd like to know." The Sergeant shook his head angrily. "His car wasn't in the garage at six o'clock. There's supposed to be someone watching this house every minute, yet he drives in, leave his motor running to commit suicide and no one sees him."

He stamped down the stairs, leaving me in a ferment. Whitefield had tried to commit suicide. And for what reason? And where was Dirck? And when I thought of him, I knew why Bermuda had lost caste. New York with its murders, blizzards and mysteries was better with Dirck than fields of fragrant Easter lilies and sunshine would be with Toby.

And then I thought, "That lawyer has a high regard for you, Miss Howarth. He goes dashing off, leaving you to the mercies of people who break into rooms and roam around fire escapes."

That Wednesday night, the third evening I'd spent in the house, was the longest I've ever put in. I sat up in the wing chair by the fireplace with the lights on, alternately furious at Dirck and then melting. I got snatches of sleep, I suppose, but the little I had was interrupted by dreams, and I would start up, my eyes going first to the fire escape and then to the door.

In the morning about eight o'clock Dirck appeared without a word of explanation, looking as though he'd been up all night. After breakfast with him at the Knife and Fork he brought me back to the house and left again. He had said nothing except to ask me how I'd slept.

The shop was still closed, of course, and Ishi wandered around the house following the reporters who had arrived in droves. The attempted suicide seemed to make more impression than the murders. Mary Ann and Adrianne were both out and Mrs. Evans was among the missing for a change.

Sarah finally showed up and gave my apartment more of a lick and a promise than the thorough cleaning that it needed. She went about her work in sullen silence and departed with a backward glance of disapproval.

Mr. Kimball called me about half-past ten. He asked me if I minded sitting in the shop for a little while in case anyone called. The reporters had nearly driven him mad and he wanted to take a short walk. Ishi had to stay with the reporters while they were in Whitefield's apartment.

The reporters subsided a little after he left and the house was fairly quiet and desolate, though the day was clear and the sun shone brightly on the snowy street. I had the feeling you have after a funeral when the shades are still drawn and voices are muted.

Ada's Mother

About eleven o'clock a woman came to the shop and asked for Miss Wells. I called up the stairway, but neither of the girls had come in yet. And the woman, I took her to be about Mr. Kimball's age, asked if she might wait. She took a chair by the window and sat there until Mr. Kimbell came back, and then I took her up to my apartment.

She took a chair by the window, sitting on the edge of it and looking at me timidly from time to time without speaking. I tried to talk a little, but she didn't seem to be listening, and suddenly she interupted me in the middle of a brief survey of New York weather.

"Do you know Miss Wells?" she asked.

"Yes," I said. "Not very well, though. I've lived here for only three days."

She was silent again and I looked at her curiously. She was rather attractive in a faded sort of a way. Her clothes were unpretentious, but she held herself with a quiet pride.

"I wonder," she said after a moment, "I wonder if you would mind describing her—Miss Wells—to me?"

I was surprised. It seemed odd that she had come to see the girl without knowing her. But when I finished a very lame description the woman nodded her head vigorously and a smile lighted her face.

"You don't know what this means to me," she said, drawing her chair closer to mine. I've worried for months not knowing where she was or what she was doing. Then I saw her name in the papers. Adrianne Wells, it said. Her name is really Ada. But I said to myself, maybe she's changed her name. I hoped and prayed this Adrianne would be her."

I was confused and she must have noticed it, for she said, "You see, I'm Ada Well's mother."

I murmured something inaudibly. There was nothing that I could think of to say. It seemed almost incredible that this pleasant, home-like person could be the mother of a girl like Adrianne Wells.

"Is she all right?" she asked eagerly. "Well, I mean?"

"Why, yes, of course." I managed that much.

She hesitated. "I read all about it in the papers and I was so worried. I couldn't leave him—her father—to come here yesterday. He isn't very well. She isn't . . . . I mean," she faltered, "the police don't suspect her, do they? It didn't sound right in the papers."

"No, of course not," I hold her quickly. "They question everyone in the house. That's just a formality."

The woman was intensely relieved, I could tell, although she said hastily, "Of course, I knew she'd never do anything wrong, but not hearing from her and not knowing where she was living worried me." She took a handkerchief out of her worn leather bag and wiped her eyes.

"You must have been upset," I said.

Shaken

The woman leaned forward confidentially. "She's a good girl," she said, "but she was always headstrong, and when her father forbade her to go on the stage, she quarreled with him. Then she ran away from home. I've always thought if we'd been a little more sympathetic she'd have listened to reason. And she did write me as soon as she got to New York. But you see she didn't say where she was living. I guess she was afraid of what her father might do. I wanted to come and find her. But he's a hard man. He wouldn't let me lift a finger. Is she working?"

I shook my head. "She was, I know," I said cautiously. "I'm not sure whether she is now."

"Maybe she'll come home with me," her mother murmured. "Her father's illness has made him a little softer. He'd be glad to have her back now."

I heard voices in the lower hall and then through the open doorway I could see Adrianne Wells coming up the stairs. Her mother's eyes lighted at the sound of her voice as Adrianne called back to Mr. Kimball, and when she hurried out into the hall I closed my door. I didn't feel in the mood for a reunion. But I'd gotten a glimpse of the girl's face. She was shaken at seeing her mother, but there was something deeper than that in her eyes. She was afraid of something, even if she hadn't been last night.

It was after twelve when Mr. Kimball came up to tell me that Sergeant Long had called. Mr. Whitefield was still in the hospital, but he had improved considerably and was out of danger. There was a broken place in the roof of the garage where air could get in and that had saved his life. But Mr. Kimball said surprisingly that the artist was under arrest. What theory the Sergeant had built around Whitefield's attempted suicide, we didn't know.

When Mary Ann came in, Mr. Kimball invited both of us down to the shop for lunch and I accepted gladly and so did Mary Ann. The Knife and Fork was a noble institution, but I was beginning to wish the menu was a little more varied. Wheat cakes and ham and eggs are swell occasionally, but for a daily diet they are a little heavy even for a thin person.

Ishi had prepared a delicious luncheon, but he served it with that smile on his face that gave me the willies. I wondered if the Sergeant had gotten Mary Ann to talk and whether Mr. Kimball knew the girl had been with Richard the night Joan Ann was quiet and talked little, so I leave them and get apartment. I wante to worry about Dirc been in the house a

She Presents Woman's View of the War

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Associated Press Writer

Nobody else ever mistook a French maid for Eve Curie except me, I guess.

I recovered just in time to be standing when Eve Curie herself, pleasant, modern, walked into the living room of her New York hotel suite.

I had hoped to learn what gave the daughter of the famous Mme. Curie, the radium woman, her reputation for chic. I stayed to learn something about that...but much more besides.

A Fashion Formula

With the late afternoon sun glinting on her, she removed the jacket of her simple black suit, revealing a gay reddish blouse, also strictly tailored. I noticed the first white in her severely coiffured black hair. I liked her smart black pumps. Even her choice of pillbox hats varied by draped turbans or snoods gives away her devotion to simplicity.

"Clothes are best reduced to their simplest expression," she commented. Her fashion formula combines Schiaparelli design with her own requisite of severity.

Almost at once she gave me the feeling that regardless of her accomplishments, the exciting thing is that Eve Curie will continue to be herself.

Reverent to the point that emotion tiptoed into her voice when she spoke of her mother, this tall younger daughter showed almost childish pleasure in her fan-mail and definite grown-up satisfaction in the letters that tell her that readers of her biography regarded Madame Curie as personal friend and heroine even though they never had met her.

She sat gracefully at ease on a divan and told me of her plans. Even the daughter of Mme. Curie, it seems, probably will write her next book on women in the war, and at least temporarily allow war to displace the book she intended to write on women in science.

Still Has Stage Fright

"I am really not a writer," she reiterated. She seemed to believe that...seemed to forget her first book has been translated into 24 languages, and to gloss over the fact that she successfully carried Broadway plays to the Paris stage. She insisted she was a lazy linguist who spoke only three languages well....admitted she had terrific stage fright in contemplating a lecture tour. She did express special pride in her sister, Irene, and Irene's husband, Frederic Joliot, who carry on the work of Marie and Pierre Curie in the same laboratory.

EVE CURIE
She's Stagefrightened

Although she was chosen almost at the outset of the war as feminine leader of the French ministry of Information, Eve Curie asserted her lecture tour was her own and that she was no agent of the French government.

She is telling her own story of French women and the war. And she thinks Europe has more than a scrap-of-paper chance to be united because of the practical cooperation between France and England.

Tune In!

"I Need a Job"

YOU will hear the first broadcast of the most unusual radio program in America on Sunday, February 25th, over Station WBNS, Columbus, from 5:30 to 6 p. m. It's called "I NEED A JOB".

The "I NEED A JOB" program will originate in the studios of WBNS and will bring worthy neighbors of yours from Columbus and vicinity before the microphone who are in desperate need of work. You will hear from capable men and women who, through no fault of their own, are out of employment. They are going to ask YOU, the listening audience, to help them find a job! Hear them tell, in their own unrehearsed words, WHAT they can do and WHY they need work so badly. The happiness and security of these folks and their families is at stake! Don't miss this thrilling, dramatic radio program full of pathos and emotion.

"I NEED A JOB" is being presented by the MARTIN Wallpaper Stores. MARTIN'S beautiful 1940 line of wallpaper is now on display at the Martin Wallpaper Stores and the Cussins and Fearn Stores nearest you.

Penalty Is Placed on Members of Cleveland Church

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 23 — Parishioners who forcibly prevented installation of a new pastor at Holy Redeemer Catholic church must make "unqualified submission" to ecclesiastical and civil authority and fulfill four other conditions to be absolved from an interdict, Archbishop Joseph Schrembs said today.

Monsignor Floyd L. Begin, officials of the Cleveland diocese, orally invoked the interdict last Sunday at the height of a demonstration at the East Side Italian-American church.

Parishioners thronged before the rectory entrance, defying 60 uniformed policemen, and barred the way of the monsignor and the Rev. Vincent Caruso, 35, pastor-designate.

The interdict denies sacraments and sacramentals of the church to all parisioners above 14 years of age except when in danger of death. There are approximately 1,100 families in the parish.

In the formal interdict published today the archbishop declares those "responsible for resisting ecclesiastical authority" may be absolved from personal interdict on five conditions.

They must (1) present themselves to the prelate or his delegate, (2) make "unqualified submission" in writing to ecclesiastical and civil authority, (3) be "truly sorry for their sin and promise to repair as far as in them lies the scandal created by their action," (4) give information usually sought in a parish census, and (5) receive in writing evidence of absolution and permission to confess their sins "and be fully restored to their rights as Catholics."

The prelate adds:

"The purpose of this decree is not revenge, since revenge is unknown to the church of Christ; its purpose is to lead erring children of the church lovingly back to their Father's House."

The decree said Father Caruso was threatened with physical violence when he sought to assume his duties in January and that on Feb. 11 installation ceremonies were prevented by force.

Parishioners said they desired to have Rev. Louis Loi Zedda, 35, seven years an assistant at the parish, named pastor.

FARM PARITY FUNDS HUNTED

Leaders Develop "Spend-Now-and-Save-Later" Strategy To Meet Situation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Senate farm leaders developed a "spend - now - and - save - later" strategy today in their efforts to add $200,000,000 for parity payments to the house-approved agriculture appropriation bill.

These senators originally had planned to delay consideration of the $722,001,084 measure until record defense appropriations have been acted on. They had hoped that sufficient cuts could be made in the defense program to finance the additional farm payments.

Senator Russell, Democrat of Georgia, announced today, however, that an appropriations subcommittee would begin hearings on the agriculture measure today, with Secretary Wallace as the first witness.

Associates of Wallace said that he planned a determined fight for the marketing certificate plan as a permanent substitute for parity payments.

Senator Bankhead, Democrat of Alabama, said there was no doubt that parity payments (to give farmers 1910-1914 purchasing power) would be voted by the senate.

Another farm state senator, speaking anonymously, told reporters that by increasing the farm appropriation now the agriculture bloc would bring added pressure for a curtailment of defense outlays.

A tentative draft of Wallace's marketing certificate plan would provide a maximum tax of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, three cents a pound on cotton and tobacco, and one cent a pound on rice and peanuts.

The tax would be collected from processors who used these commodities in making products for domestic consumption and from importers of the commodities.

Receipts would be distributed among farmers who cooperate with the crop control programs.

The bill, which is expected to be laid before congressional farm leaders soon, provides that these maximum rates would not become effective at first. At the start, the rates would be half the difference between the average farm price and the parity price of the basic commodities.

Marion Groups Joining in District Observance of Girl Reserve Week

Series of Special Activities Begun Today with Daily Features Planned for Entire Week.

Girl Reserves of Harding High school, and Central, Thomas A Edison and Vernon Heights Junior High schools are joining those of the Ohio and Western Pennsylvania district in the observance of Girl Reserve Week which opens today and will continue through March 1.

Interesting programs have been arranged for each day in each of the schools and a number of activities have been outlined. The girls have made and will wear yarn dolls in their colors of blue and white throughout the week, some will sell candy as a project to raise money for the Finnish Relief fund and practically all will have exhibits of posters and hobby notebooks The following activities are scheduled for the week:

Today—Assembly programs as follows: Harding High, model Girl Reserve meeting, Edison Junior High, music by members; Vernon Junior High, original play in three acts, using the entire membership, in which hobby, program, music, ceremonial and favor groups participate, central special recognition in the "X-ray," school paper.

Sunday morning — Members, sponsors, and council members will attend church services in groups; Sunday afternoon, tea at Harding High for Harding girls, their mothers, teachers and Y W. C A council members

Monday—Radio devotional program at Central, talk at Lions club by a Senior club member; 7 p m, talk at Harding gym by Miss Roberta Chapman, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Columbus, who will tell of her trip to the Youth Conference at Amsterdam, Holland The public invited.

Tuesday—Talk at Rotary club by a Senior club member, recognition tea at 3.45 at Edison Junior High, reception at 7 15 at Central for parents and guests.

Wednesday — Evening radio broadcast.

Thursday—Talk at Kiwanis club by a Senior club member, "at home" nights for girls and parents.

Approximately $400 a year is received by Marion Girl Reserves of the Y W C A from the Community Fund This money is used to send girls to summer camps, to district conferences, and to help pay the salary of the district secretary, Miss Helen Persinger

The Young Women's Christian association, which has been in existence for some 90 years, includes among its members women and girls of all economic classes, races and nationalities, ages and denominations. Its purpose is as follows:

"To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share His love for all people and to grow in the knowledge and love of God"

The aim of the Girl Reserve movement is to help in the building of personality and of attitude in line with social progress.

Its aim is to face life squarely; its slogan, 'To find and give the best," and its code

G racious in manner,
I mpartial in judgment,

MARION RESIDENT DIES AT COLUMBUS

Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly Stricken; Rites Set for Monday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, 83, lifelong resident of Marion county, died of complications at 9:30 o'clock last night at Glenmont Home in Columbus. She was the last of a family of nine children born to Philip Retterer, a native of Germany and Mary Myers Retterer, whose birthplace was Pennsylvania, and for a number of years made her home with a sister, the late Mrs. A. H. Howser of 325 Franklin street. Her parents were pioneer residents of Marion county.

Mrs. Kelly was born Oct. 9, 1856 in Grand Prairie township. Her first marriage was to David Brown and her second husband was Uriah W. Kelly who died in 1904. She was a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist.

A child by her first marriage and the following sisters and brothers are deceased: Mrs. B. F. Shoots, Mrs. Dison Shoots, Mrs. Sophia Lucas, Mrs. A. H. Howser who died in May last year, Miss Callie Retterer, Benjamin Retterer, Mrs. C. W. Mapes and W. H. Retterer.

The body is at the Curtis Home for Funerals where friends may call after 10 a. m. Saturday. Christian Science services will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the funeral home. Burial will be in the Marion cemetery.

MRS. MEDORA GOLDSMITH, GALION RESIDENT, DIES

Special to The Star

GALION, Feb. 23 — Mrs. Medora A. Goldsmith, 77, died at her home here at 5:30 o'clock this morning following an illness of five weeks.

Mrs. Goldsmith, the widow of William R. Goldsmith, is survived by a daughter, Miss Elsie Goldsmith at home, a sister, Mrs. Laura Garberich of Galion and a brother, Arthur Shoemaker of Cleveland.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Snyder funeral home here at 2 p. m. Monday with Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of First Methodist church, in charge. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

"NO! I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE MY CHILD HAS WORMS!"

Don't Dodge the Truth, Mother!

It is horrible even to think that ugly living things may be crawling and growing inside your child. But do you realize how easy it is for a child to "catch" round worms without your even knowing it? If the invisible worm eggs are in the neighborhood, they can be picked up from other children, from dogs, from uncooked vegetables.

So, take heed if your child shows these danger signs: Upset stomach. Itching nose and other parts. Peculiar appetite. Fretfulness and fidgeting. Restless sleep.

If you even suspect that your child has round worms, don't delay one second! Start using JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Jayne's is the best known medicine for round worms throughout the U. S. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions of mothers, for over a century.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE contains no santonin. It is pleasant to take, and although it has the ability to expel large round worms when taken as directed, it is very gentle, acting merely as a mild laxative if there are no worms. Ask for "JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE."

Write today for Jayne's good-will gift: a high-grade, modern-style kitchen knife absolutely free! Stainless steel blade and special non-slip handle. It's yours for the asking; no strings attached, nothing to buy. Cut out this ad and send it with your name and address, before March 1, 1940, to Dept. Q-3, Dr. D. Jayne & Son, 2 Vine St., Philadelphia.

ALICE FAYE TO SUE MARTIN FOR DIVORCE

Tuneful Hollywood Romance on Career Rocks.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 — The tuneful romance of blues-singer Alice Faye and her handsome radio-crooning husband, Tony Martin, has come to a discordant ending. Alice plans to get a divorce.

The blond actress and the dark-haired radio star, who also has achieved prominence in the movies, eloped to Yuma, Ariz. Sept. 3, 1937. Neither had been married before. But their music careers, linked at first, finally pulled them apart.

Martin's radio and orchestra work kept him constantly "on the road" or in the east.

Alice, banned by her studio from radio appearances which interfered with her acting career, remained close to Hollywood and the films, which during 1939 elevated her to seventh place in stars' box-office ranking.

After laughing off many reports within recent months that they were estranged, Miss Faye announced last night that she had instructed her attorney to file suit for divorce, charging incompatibility. She said Martin would not contest the suit.

"Tony's a grand person," said Miss Faye, "but we simply didn't have a marriage."

Martin, now working at Miami, Fla., said by telephone before departing by plane for New York:

"We did our best to make a go of it. Our separate careers kept us apart—there doesn't appear to be anything else but a divorce."

FARMERS

into the subject "the American farmer and the European war" ends tomorrow night.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York is on the program tomorrow noon. Other institute speakers will include Adolf Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, Chester Davis of the federal reserve board, and Phillip Murray of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Dr. Black told the institute that:

1. War-born inflation would cause a sudden wage increase "when our society has not yet digested the last one."

2. No great new outlet for farm products can be sighted "even in 1942 if the war lasts that long."

3. A domestic allotment plan, under which surpluses are sold on the world level and the domestic quota at artificially-maintained prices, is desirable for the success of a federal farm program.

Allies Buy Elsewhere

Earl C. Smith of Chicago, vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the allies may be expected to use their dollar exchange to buy war materials in this country but "as far as possible will buy their food products elsewhere."

Urging full parity payments to farmers, Smith declared the "restoration of agriculture" is a greater fundamental to the welfare of the nation "than are armaments of any other character."

WILDLIFE WINTER RESORT

Brown County Provides Food for Birds and Small Animals.

By The Associated Press

SARDINIA, O.—If birds only knew, they might want to winter in Brown county instead of southern states.

Food for wildlife is spotted throughout the country, offering a mute "help yourself" invitation when snow and zero cold threaten starvation for birds and small animals.

Here's how the plan works:

Game Protector K. W. Duncan, assisted by Protector Charles Short of Adams county, 4-H club boys and a committee from the Brown County Fish and Game association, organized food-placing hikes.

The group placed branche in streams to prevent freezing over of running water; nailed cobs of corn to trees, stumps and logs; and made shelters of boughs and corn stalks to protect wheat, sunflower seeds, whole corn and scratch feed which was scattered where snow was swept away.

Birds, squirrels, rabbits and raccoons could live on such food despite winter rigors, the hikers declared.

TEACHER HAS NO PUPILS BUT GETS HER SALARY

By United Press

SHUBERT, Neb.—Mrs. Raymond Donn had her first school teaching job recently—and it comprised sitting alone in a studentless classroom for a salary of [illegible] a month.

The only children in the rural school district for which she was retained are being sent by their parents to the Shubert town school. The school board assured Mrs. Donn that she would be paid, so she devised for herself a daily schedule of knitting, letter-writing and listening to the radio. [illegible]

RACE NEWS SERVICE ORDERED MAINTAINED

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 23—The Western Union Telegraph Co. today was ordered to continue wire service to a horse race news service supplying racing information here, until 48 hours after the district federal court receives notice of an injunction suit brought against the utility by William N. Hamilton, local head of the news service.

Judge Erskine Maiden Jr., approved a motion by the telegraph company to have the case removed to the federal court because of "a diversity of citizenship" but ordered the wire service continued to preserve the status quo in the situation.

Machine Without a Spark

HUEY LONG built himself a super-charged political machine that was the envy of every political boss in the United States. The instant Huey passed on, the question wasn't whether his works were good or bad but what would become of them.

The answer has been made available in the results of last Tuesday's runoff primary in Louisiana. The Long machine, in the willing but uninspired hands of its creator's brother and other followers, including a brace of United States senators, a flock of congressmen and an army of heelers, ran second to another machine patented by Sam Houston Jones. Sam's machine wasn't so much on paper, but it did the business at the polls.

It's an object lesson in American politics—any country's politics. Political machines are never unbeatable. Only political personalities are unbeatable—until they're beaten. The thing that has happened in Louisiana must have raised a million square yards of gooseflesh on gentlemen who know they've hitched their wagons to perishable personalities but hate to be reminded of it.

Runoff

IN ALL the wide-eyed writing done about snow —the way it falls, piles up, looks and feels— there's a conspiracy of silence about the runoff, certainly one of the best features of snow.

Perhaps this is because on days warm enough to start snow melting the winter atmosphere is too depressing to permit the descriptive urge to bubble over with enthusiasm. Truth is, the runoff has little beauty to commend it.

It is more in the nature of an interesting physical phenomenon—that so much material suddenly should change its form and disperse itself according to a pre-existing plan. This plan is particularly interesting in cities, where human ingenuity has been on the whole more successful than nature's trial and error system for getting rid of excess water with a maximum of speed and a minimum of damage. There's still too much trial and error in the natural system; flood control hasn't much more than made a reasonable start toward matching municipal drainage systems. Perhaps it's because man is too small to understand nature in the mass.

The best he can do is build scale models to prove what would happen if he could compress nature in a laboratory, which is the relative size of a city drainage system when matched with the streams and slopes of a watershed. Lacking a complete grasp of the matter, man must trust to luck and frost, meanwhile watching for news that the runoff he watched today is contributing to a flood somewhere between him and the ocean tomorrow.

The Other Barrel

NEWEST, most important war development—more vital than anything happening in central Europe, the North sea or Finland is the concentration of allied troops in the near east. Frazier Hunt, war correspondent, asserts the French contingent alone numbers a quarter of a million, with many more quickly available—"an entire empire coming to the defense of France." Britain's expedition is of comparable size.

France and Britain, of course, are at the other end of Europe. That is the vital importance of the concentration. Allied troops in the near east are "the other barrel," to be fired when needed. Nominally for the purpose of halting German invasion of Rumania, perhaps with Russian aid, actually they are establishing war on two fronts for Germany's discomfiture. Before doing anything on the western front, whatever it may be, the Nazi military machine must be able to guarantee the security of the eastern front.

No other single factor in Europe's unfolding military strategy is half so important in its potentialities as the "defensive expedition" organized by the allies at Germany's backdoor.

The Great Whatizzit

OHIOANS are pondering gravely the case of the state legislator who thinks he is entitled to unemployment insurance because when the legislature is not in session he is unemployed.

They're not so sure the unemployment compensation administrator's ruling of "No Soap" is proper in a case like this. How is it possible to tell whether a legislator is employed or not?

This has been a puzzle for decades. There are legislators who are unemployed by nature. Some of them do the most good when the legislature's not in session. Some of them seem to be doing good all the time. It's a state of mind. Ohio would be interested in knowing which legislator feels so unemployed he took a chance at getting caught saying so.

News Behind the News

Gold and Silver Purchases of U. S. Help Finance War Abroad.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — Big hearted Uncle Sam—now not infrequently referred to abroad as Uncle Sap—seems to be doing more than an inside bit toward financing the war.

Denials of credit, the neutrality bill, cash and carry are standing public guard over the treasury, but easy dollars to promote the same purpose are being siphoned out of the basement by the gold and silver buying policy.

Paul Mallon

Fresh figures from the federal reserve board show the treasury bought more than $3,000,000,000 of gold in 1939, approximately two-thirds of it from the British empire. And we paid for it, not what it was judged by foreigners to be worth, but the fancy premium price of $35 an ounce. What it was really worth nobody knows, because our policy is to buy any foreign gold at that figure. Apparently authoritative computations show the cost of producing gold in Transvaal was $20.48. On the gold coast the average cost before taxes of Ashanti, largest producer, was $7.82.

But this government was impartial in its benevolence to nations at war or peace. Its bounty price also was paid to Russia, reputedly second largest world producer, Japan and Mexico.

Silver Purchases

New official treasury figures show we bought $120,500,000 of foreign silver last year at a similar bounty price. The beneficiaries were Mexico, Canada, China, Germany, Russia and others.

Since 1934 foreign nations have sold, mostly to us, $997,800,000 of silver. Some of this came from Italy when the Italians called in their silver coins to help finance their Ethiopian war, some from Spain during the civil war there, some from Japanese seizures of Chinese silver in the far eastern conflict.

Such big hearted buying was started initially in self interest, to inflate prices, cure the depression, promote foreign trade, as well as to subsidize domestic silver producers, but a good many of the New Dealers are getting a little tired of the cost and effort. Critics of the administration (but mostly Senator Townsend) have centered their fire mainly upon the foreign silver purchases and the buying of gold from Russia. Some inner indications have suggested State Secretary Hull no longer believes foreign silver buying is essential to American diplomacy.

Something is likely to be done either in congress or the treasury concerning these minor angles, but the major gold policy is not likely to be altered materially during the present administration.

Dark Picture

Desks of important government figures are wet with tears shed for Allied war prospects by returned Ambassador Kennedy from London and Bullitt from Paris. Next six months is the critical period they are telling the home office. Their gloom, ranging from Kennedy's deep black to Bullitt's dark brown, has cast some doubt at the top here about the outcome of the war, but not much.

Ambassadorial opinions have never been rated high hereabouts. Unbroken experience indicates their judgment is naturally warped and woofed by the governments to which they are assigned. London and Paris would like to paint the darkest possible picture for Washington in order to promote American sympathy and aid.

Reasons

For whatever it is worth, the Kennedy-Bullitt pessimism is based on three points:

1. German air superiority (generally believed here to be overestimated).
2. Ineffectiveness of blockade in North Sea due to free and virtually unimpeded air raiding by Germans upon shipping.
3. The fear that Hitler will successfully bomb London and British ports this year before England has a chance to achieve numerical equality in the air.

Of these points the only one which is impressive is the established fact that the Germans have the air freedom of the North Sea.

Other Defects

Less influenced eyes here see other defects in Britain, perhaps graver but not likely to be fatal.

Economic blundering is evident in the increase of British unemployment since the war began. In that nation, striving its mightiest for six months now to use every sinew of its manpower, there are one million unemployed, an increase of 400,000 since the war started.

The increase is attributable to the evacuation of London, blackout, curfew, rationing, and decrease of export trade, which have thrown storekeepers, barkeeps, movie operators, and export employes into wasteful idleness.

Many months will be required to put these people to other work. That some plans were not made for them is another indication of British blundering but that is the way they have always won their wars.

Authoritative inside criticism is also heard of British indecision. It let Czechoslovakia, Poland, and now apparently Finland go without daring to act. If it waits placidly for Hitler to wring his needed war materials out of Russia and the Balkins in coming years, it might yet find its enemy provided with better sources of supplies than it has. Yet no one here expects either British blundering or indecision to continue that long.

Nazi Food Problem

U. S. Economist Foresees Serious Shortage by Sept. 1.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — An explanation of Nazi demands that German farmers plant abundantly this spring is contained in a study of Nazi food conditions made by a United States government economist.

His conclusion is: Germany can feed her workers and soldiers well until about Sept. 1, then shortages of important food elements, principally meats, fats, fruits and vegetables, will begin to wear down morale.

Preston Grover

The trouble lies in the fact that just at the time her usual sources of imported foods are cut off by the blockade. Germany must support demands for larger rations for soldiers and munitions workers.

"While no danger of serious under-nutrition is likely to develop during the first year of the war," says a summary of the report, "the fact still remains that food it not being supplied in sufficient quantity and variety at the present time to sustain the kind of work now demanded of the German people. Neither the population at large nor the armament workers possess the body reserves needed for continued strenuous physical activity under an inadequate diet. This conclusion is based on evidence that the German people entered the war after two or three years of very moderate consumption compared with what is generally considered a desirable or even necessary diet.

"The evidence at hand reveals that the average German consumer received 15 per cent less calorie value in 1937 than he did in 1927. Of even greater significance in the present war emergency is the situation with respect to those engaged in heavy manual labor such as the armament workers and other laborers engaged in activities requiring similarly heavy physical exertion.

Was Below Standard

"Even before the war the calorie value of the diet of the latter group was regarded by German nutrition experts as being 10 per cent below the desired standard. Although the diet of such laborers did not give rise to danger of serious under-nutrition it allowed no safety margin to speak of. Both in the case of the average German consumer and in the case of the heavy manual laborers, any further reduction in the actual nutritional value of the pre-war diet would at once affect their efficiency and morale....

"Should it become necessary, in order to keep the labor population satisfied, to increase the rations, particularly of meats and fats, it is highly probable that the bulk of the existing stocks of those commodities will be used up by the end of the first year of hostilities."

Germans Get More Jam

Why these reports should conflict with published statements of the German government is indicated in quotations from German reports of restricted circulation. In these reports German economists complain that the official propaganda publications are padded and misleading.

The German government is credited with much wisdom in organizing the food supply at once on a ration basis instead of waiting two years, as in the World war. Yet, while Germans went into the World war fat and frisky, they went into the current war after three years of restricted diet.

Primary reductions in the diet allowance come in meats and fats. Decreases are compensated by increased bread allowances. By contrast with his 1936 diet, the average German takes a 22 per cent cut in meats, a 50 per cent cut in fats, a 74 per cent cut in cheese, a 2 per cent cut in sugar. This is offset by a 15 per cent increase in bread and an allowance of preserves.

This will provide 2,400 calories a day, the report says—enough to keep a man going on light work. Increased allowances are made for soldiers, heavy manual workers and extra heavy manual workers, but the increases are largely represented in potatoes and bread. Heavy duty workers and soldiers get about 70 per cent more food than average adults.

The hitch comes, the report says, in the difficulty Germany encounters in maintaining the meat, fat, fruit and vegetable supplies. It quotes a German economic study as saying that efficiency of German workers slumped 20 per cent during the World war because of inadequate food.

J. V. Wood, 81, father of Rev. L. A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, died at his home in Granville. He was a Civil war veteran.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Feb. 23, 1920.

Senator Warren G. Harding and Will Hays, Republican national chairman, were speakers at a statewide G. O. P. rally in Columbus. Among his declarations, Senator Harding said, "We ought to declare an end to bureaucracy and turn again to government by law and the free activities of a law-abiding people. We ought to declare the Republican party unalterably opposed to government ownership and nationalization of industry. We ought to about face on war's extravagant expenditure and get to thinking in millions again instead of incomprehensible billions. We must become sane in expenditure and the government itself must be an example of economy to its citizens and hark back to thrift as the security of good fortune."

The feature picture at the Grand theater was "The Invisible Bond" starring Irene Castle, at the Marion the picture was "Stronger than Death" with Nazimova in the leading role while at the Orpheum there was vaudeville including "sensational dances" by the "beautiful Lind."

The basketball championship of Marion county was won by the Marion High school team when it defeated the Liberty Five in a game at the Y. M. C. A. gym, 28-27. The Liberty Five had previously defeated the City team, 23-14. The lineups were: High school, Mewhorter, Knachel, Hamilton, Irey, Patton, Tschanen; Liberty Five, Lawrence, Parr, Haflick, Schweinfurth, Burdge, Cramer, Clay; City team, Foster, Robbins, Bacher, Dowler, Burdette, Dreher, J. Need Seen for Planned Effort To Achieve Peace That Will Endure 50 Years or More.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE world as a whole, and the United States in particular, is full of cynics who are convinced that because the settlement of the other war was a failure, the settlement of this war must also be a failure. The study of a little history is no doubt depressing. But there is no warrant in human experience for a pessimism which insists that no war can ever end in a good peace. If this war, for example, could end in as long a peace as that which most of mankind enjoyed for the hundred years between the battle of Waterloo in 1815 and the invasion of Belgium in 1914, we should be entitled to say that it was a good peace.

Walter Lippmann

To be sure, there were wars in the Nineteenth century; there was injustice and opposition. But the wars were local and limited; the injustice and oppression were remediable and diminishing. There was enough peace to allow men to devote their main energies to the conquest of nature and the improvement of the standard of life; there was enough justice and freedom to permit the liquidation of many ancient wrongs.

Perpetual peace which eradicates all evils is not an attainable ideal at this stage in the slow process of civilizing mankind. This may be sad. But it would seem to be true. And if it is true, then those who can become interested only in a perfect peace are sentimentalists and are bound to be disappointed. And, as we know, a cynic is a disappointed sentimentalist.

We must aim at the possible, or we shall accomplish nothing at all. We must aim at a peace which is good enough to endure without serious interruption in the world as it is and among men as they are—for perhaps 50 years. In 50 years of peace much can be done; this is a sufficiently great thing to work for. Our forefathers a hundred years ago did better than that, and what they did once even we might hope to do again.

I do not say these things by way of introducing some personal plan of my own for the establishment of peace. I respect those who make such plans, who design new constitutions for the human race, and redraw the political map of the world, and devise great schemes for organizing worldwide cooperation. But, though they may often contribute useful suggestions and though they do frequently throw light on specific issues, I do not believe that any man or any generation of men is able to imagine, much less to induce mankind to accept, a contrived and invented peace.

Concealed within all such schemes there is, it seems to me, an unconscious and unrealized premise: that the new peace which has been imagined will somehow be imposed on the peoples of the world by force, or that it will be accepted as a result of some miracle that engenders universal consent. I do not believe that any one will ever possess enough force to impose a general peace, and I do not believe we shall live to see the miracle of universal consent. Therefore, I hold that these plans, schemes, devices and blueprints are a false approach to the problem. For in the last analysis they assume that the victorious survivors of the war will be devout believers in the plan.

It is most unlikely that the survivors of any war will all take anything like an identical view of their respective interests, their immediate needs and their specific aspirations. Now it is the survivors who will make the peace. Whether it is a good peace which lasts a reasonably long time, or is a bad peace which makes necessary immediate preparations for the next war, will depend upon whether the arrangements in the settlement are such that they promote or discourage the reconciliation of the great conflicting interests. No war can obliterate the conflicts of interests. No treaty of peace can eliminate them.

War Aimed at Peace

But a war may be well-conducted so as to harmonize sound military tactics with a sound political strategy. If it is, a war may produce a situation in which

The Male Beast

He Stalks Ahead To Confront
ger Wherever It May Lurk T
Protect His Helpless Mate.

By DAMON RUNYON

WE HAVE received a letter from a reader complaining that her husban along the street letting her tag after him, file, and that he bolts through doors ahe her. She wants to know if we do not co him an exceptionally rude and inc erate man.

We do not. We think the protective in is highly developed in this husband, he perhaps does not realize it. He goes ahead of her as a matter of instinct to shield her from possible danger—to take any impending blows first. If, while walking in the street, a shot is fired at them, the husband is the lady's bulwark. If anyone asks what about a shot fired from behind, we can answer that no gentleman would fire on a lady from the rear.

Damon Ru

If, behind a closed door, there lurks sinister danger, the lady's husband is bravely lunging forward into it first. That is why he enters doors ahead of her. It is protective instinct. It is something that back to the primitive man. It is somethin find in the nobler beasts of the forest, a is always being misunderstood by m ladies.

We do not call ourself a brave man, y like to get into the bathroom first in the ing because how can we be sure a rattle is not coiled in there? Of course it is impro that a rattlesnake would be coiled in the York apartment we inhabit, but it could lion or a buffalo.

IT LOOKS quite gallant to see a gentl arm-in-arm with a lady in the street, he her through doors ahead of him, but it ma be gallantry at all. It may be cowardice may keep close to her while walking so when danger threatens he can push her in of him as a shield. By letting her walk th open doors first he is letting her step int risks that may lie beyond. In short, he is her as a convenience and as protection earnestly advise unmarried ladies to geezers of that type when contemp matrimony.

We have heard married ladies, who f recognize the protective instinct in their bands, beef because they pull out chairs in taurants and sit down first. Without the bands knowing it themselves, the protecti stinct prompts this move. They want to te strength of the chairs before permitting wives to try them.

Our correspondent does not mention bu but if her husband lets her lug the bu when she is walking behind him in the it is further indication of the protectiv stinct. He wants to have both hands fr meet any assassins who may be lingering the line of march. When a gentleman insi carrying bundles for a lady, he is just assi to her the fist-fighting, in case any dev

INDIAN warriors generally walked ahe their squaws, letting the latter carr bundles and perhaps the papoose. The riors wanted to be free handed in ca trouble.

Married men, in whom the protective in is highly developed, generally permit wives to carry the papooses for much the reason. Also, the papooses may be heavy.

The protective instinct in us used to p about 10 paces ahead of a lady walking street, sometimes more, depending on the yen for window shopping. This practice sionally developed odd little situations. S times we have found ourself addressing st ladies and telling them, rather sharpl hurry up.

One night we took a lady by the arm started to pull her along to accelerate her only to discover she was not the right She stopped at the first cop and wanted to us taken in charge, but the right lady ha up from her window shopping and set right. The strange lady said she was gla was not married to the likes of us, and made us even. We were glad, too.

WE TRUST we have cleared up our spondent's query and placed her hu in a better light. We assure the lady that good old days he would have been pre her with a lance or a big battle ax. W see he is of the right breed. Undoubte also precedes the lady up and down stairs. is not only proper but one of the greatest measures ever devised for gentlemen.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

John Sherman of Richland county, wh a U. S. senatorship from Ohio for 26 during a 36-year period beginning in became a nationally-known political when but a young man.

Admitted to the bar in 1848, he shortly wards was elected a Whig delegate to the delphia convention, where he was made vention secretary. Sherman stumped Oh Zachary Taylor, the presidential can elected.

At the next congressional session Sh was named to a committee to investigate troubles in Kansas, a national "hot-sp that day.

So bold were the ruffians that only the ence of U. S. troops from Fort Leav prevented the committee members from manhandled. On one occasion testimony ceedings were delayed by 60 men armed bowie knives and pistols.

OHIO PRIMARY BATTLE ROYAL

[illegible] Contest for Guber- [illegible] Nomination Makes Free-for-All.

By The Associated Press

[illegible] O, Feb 23 — [illegible] gubernatorial [illegible] se[illegible]ed at the May [illegible] has developed into [illegible] a battle royal [illegible] final[illegible]

[illegible] ed candidates are in [illegible] there may be two [illegible] onal entrants be[illegible] deadline March 15 [illegible] Lawrence Baker, WPA worker, former [illegible] Herbert S Duffy of [illegible] Frank Dye, Columbus [illegible] James F Flynn, San[illegible] former Secretary [illegible] William J Kennedy of [illegible] former State Highway [illegible] es R Marker of Co[illegible] and former Rep-at-Large [illegible] of Cleveland [illegible] entrants are for[illegible] Davey of Kent George White of Marietta [illegible] understood to be con[illegible] a third term [illegible] will not run if [illegible]

[illegible] all those [illegible] announced will not [illegible] should the list re[illegible] ent or one or two [illegible] wayside, it still would [illegible] the largest guber[illegible] ever presented to [illegible]

[illegible] split field it appears probable that the candidate capable of winning a consistent [illegible] in all the 88 counties would stand the best chance for nomination. Just which candidate possesses such a vote drawing prowess is only a matter of conjecture now.

Only three of the announced candidates, Duffy, Kennedy and Moeter, have been in a statewide contest before. Should Davey or White enter they also would have a background of extensive campaigning.

The large field does not necessarily mean that the Democrats are split as many ways or even that there is any considerable breach in their ranks. The nominee, when the fight is over, probably will be accepted by most party members as the man to beat Republican Gov. Bricker for reelection.

Only on rare occasions do the Democrats fail to back solidly their nominees. The most recent outstanding exception was two years ago when Charles Sawyer licked Davey for a third term nomination.

Governor Bricker it appears is to have no formidable opposition if any at all for renomination.

LIPPMANN

the conflicts of interest are capable of being reconciled. Then a good treaty of peace can commit the peoples to policies which assuage the conflicts and will therefore in the course of time make it appear sensible to liquidate the issues by successive adjustments and compromises.

If we approach the problem in this fashion, we shall see I believe that the conduct of war and the making of peace are not distinct and contradictory operations. They are continuous. That is to say the strategical results of a war determine the basic conditions of the ensuing peace.

It is a confusing error to fail to understand that the strategy of war and the making of the ensuing peace are at bottom two aspects of the same thing. For this error causes the peoples to entrust the conduct of war to soldiers who do not understand politics and to leave the arrangements of peace to politicians who do not understand war. They have failed to understand the profound truth of von Clausewitz's doctrine that "war is nothing but a continuation of political intercourse." This failure has produced the militarist who supports wars but cannot conclude them and it has produced the pacifist who declaims against wars but does not prevent them.

Club honors went to Mrs. Tuttle, first and lone hand, Mrs. Wilson second, Mrs. Bertha Daly third and the penny box and Mrs. Louise Fausnaugh fourth.

Mrs. G. B. Heffelfinger of 617 South Prospect street entertained at dinner last evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Heffelfinger. A large white cake trimmed in red and blue centered the table where covers were laid for the celebrant, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Heffelfinger of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McNeil and Mrs. Bertha Heffelfinger of Bucyrus and the hostess. The celebrant received a number of remembrances.

Lunch and a social hour followed a session of euchre at a meeting of the Gingham 12 club last evening at the home of Mrs. Imo Bonsell on Congress street. Awards for high scores were won by Mrs. Emma Lewis first, Mrs. Myrtle Buckingham second and Mrs. Bonsell third. Mrs. Buckingham also received the lone hand award. In two weeks the club will meet with Mrs. Pearl Buckingham on East George street.

Mrs. Ernest Phillips entertained members of the Heigh Ho club at her home on Davids street yesterday afternoon.

The afternoon was spent at needlework. Mrs. William Scranton won first prize at cootie and Mrs. Charles Hoagland was consoled. Mrs. Frank Bailey received the guessing box award.

Plans were completed for entertaining husbands of members at a potluck dinner at Phillips residence. Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Hoagland will be hostesses.

Mrs. Marie Cook of 241 North Seffner avenue left yesterday for a short visit at Franklin Grove, Ill., with Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Cover, former Marion residents.

NO IRRITATION TO HANDS IN NEW SUDS FOR DISHES

Women find new type suds gives dishes and glassware amazing sparkle yet hands stay soft because it is not a soap. Entirely different from even the finest soap or soap flakes because it contains no acid or alkali. If you have ever been ashamed of coarse red hands, if you have ever wondered what robbed your fingers of their dainty smoothness, chances are it's the alkali from the soap you use for washing dishes. That's why thousands of women are switching to Vel, the new soapless suds perfected by Colgate that contains no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin. It's startling how you can wash dishes time after time without a trace of the irritation to hands resulting from soaps. Vel is so easy on hands women joyfully report it "takes the curse out of dishwashing." Glassware and china sparkle with glittering highlights because Vel—unlike soap—cannot form soap scum to streak glassware and dishes. Vel is also the ideal suds for silks and woolens because it works perfectly in cold water and because it can't leave soap scum to make fresh colors dull and frowsy looking. Buy Vel today at any grocer's. Made and guaranteed by Colgate Palmolive Peet Company.

Olina Told It Would Be Useless for Mary to Change Rendition

MY PULSES quickened at Olina's startling statement. Again suspicion raised its ugly head. Was she talking idly or had Philip Veritzen coached her for this interview? I really believed her blameless and ingenuous—but I meant to take no chances.

"What would you do, Olina?" I asked in the indulgent tone with which one speaks to a child. "Something drastic, I suppose."

"Indeed I would," she said. "Mr. Veritzen must be getting senile or he never would have made her learn her role that way. You know as well as I do, only you won't say so—please forgive me, I don't mean to be impudent—that if Mary makes a public performance reading her lines that way, she'll make a complete flop. If I were she, I'd have figured out my own way of saying those lines, and then rehearsal came, I'd say it my own way no matter what happened."

Veritzen Tactics

I made my smile and tone the least bit patronizing.

"You evidently don't know your future stepfather very well," I said. "Thwarting him or going against his instructions simply isn't done in his organization. If you or Mary did anything like that you might last for three or four lines in his sheer astonishment at your effrontery, but that would be all. You would find yourselves inexorably dismissed from his organization with no chance of ever getting back."

Her face was sight-set as she looked at me.

"You really mean he would do that?" she asked.

"Indubitably," I replied.

She digested that for a second, then she sprang to her feet.

"It's a shame," she said. "And if I knew Mr. Veritzen better I'd tell him so."

Word of Warning

"I'd advise you not to interfere, Olina," I said. "I know Mr. Veritzen from years of professional association with him. Speaking to him about this would do Mary no possible good and might endanger your own professional chances. He is a czar in his own domain, you know."

A perceptible shiver rippled over her.

"Poor Mamma!" she said, "and poor me!"

I hastened to undo the mischief I inadvertently had made.

"I don't think you need have the slightest uneasiness on that score," I said quickly. "Your mother is perfectly capable of managing him, and if you play your cards right and humor a few of his prejudices you will find him extravagantly indulgent to your every whim."

Discussion Ends

"Well! nothing can be changed now, anyway," she said, and I saw that she had said all she was going to say on the subject of Mary's rendition.

"Are you coming back with me to your mother's room?" I asked.

"If you don't mind, no," she said. "Mamma didn't exactly rule me out, but I gathered the impression that this was to be a conference for adults, so I think if I may I'll stay down here and play some more. It's so long since I had a harp under my hands. I'm positively nostalgic for it."

"Play as long as you like," I told her. "No one will disturb you."

I went out of the room upon that assurance to her and climbed the stairs to the second floor. But I did not go directly to Olga's suite. I told myself that she and the romantic suitor who had come back into her life would not miss me for a few more minutes. I also knew that no sedative would do Mary any good until she had my report upon Olina's queries, and I went straight to her door, gave my own signaling knock and then went in to save her the trouble of coming to the door or calling to me.

PLEASANT INSTITUTE TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Play Scheduled, Officers Are Named in Friday Session.

The twenty-fourth annual Pleasant Township Farmers Community Institute will close tonight with a two act play to be presented at the school at 8 o'clock.

The business sessions of the institute wound up yesterday afternoon with election of the following officers: Brinaldo Williams, president; Harley Myers, vice president; Delbert Lichtenberger, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Walter Behner, lady correspondent and Mrs. Oscar Mautz, assistant lady correspondent.

Winners in the displays of farm and home products were announced today. John Seiter won the men's farm produce contest, Mrs. John J. Seiter won the women's contest, LeRoy Laucher won the boys' contest and Ruth McClure won the girls' contest.

Runners up in the women's division were Mrs. Richard Grice, Mrs. Otis Rider and Mrs. George Lust and in the girls' division Ruth Kaufman and Ruth Long.

Attendance at the various sessions, which opened Wednesday morning, averaged about 250. The play was originally scheduled for last night but was delayed until tonight because of conflict with the county basketball tournament. It is called "The Laughing Cure." Taking part are Loren Miller, Richard Cusick, Walter Moyer, Carl Rider, Mary Mehaffey, Marie Hoopman, Ann Gover, Mrs. Walter Moyer and Mr. Stanley Hoopman.

Taking part in the institute programs were Rev. Edgar W. Schuh, Miss Grace Gruber, accordion solo; Harold Pittick, song leader; the Marion Melody Boys and a group from the Farm Ladies club.

The state speakers were Mrs. Mary Cartwright of Delaware and John Grierson of Hillsboro.

Lunches were served by the Trinity Lutheran church Ladies Aid society.

AUNT GRACE GREETS TOM DEWEY

Before his Lincoln day speech at Portland, Ore., Thomas E. Dewey, New York candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, had a reunion with his aunt, Miss F. Grace Dewey, of Pasadena, Calif. Dewey said in his address that the division of the American people over political and economic principles is bringing tragic results to the nation.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN STOWAWAYS

When the S. S. Vulcania docked in New York, these four persons, Mrs. Margareta De Lease Madden Alvarez and her three children, were aboard—as stowaways. Mrs. Alvarez is an American citizen, residing in Philadelphia. She boarded the boat at Lisbon, snuggling herself and family into a third class cabin occupied by another woman. She was not discovered until she attempted to pass through immigration.

FINLAND

army force was being isolated in a new "lost battalion" drama.

There, where the Soviet 18th division was shattered by a process of attrition, one remaining group of Russians, described as about a battalion of strength, hung on valiantly as the Finns drew the noose tighter.

Wade Werner, The Associated Press chief in Finland, who viewed the scene both by day and by moonlight, described it as a winter land of death, disaster and awful destruction.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 23—The Red army reported the capture of the 65th Mannerheim line fortification today but failed to fulfill the expectation of its admirers by taking the Finnish city of Viipuri as a 22nd anniversary feat.

A Leningrad military command communique reported the capture of "21 defensive fortifications, including 15 iron and concrete artillery forts" on the Karelian Isthmus. This added to the 654 previously reported taken.

Lecturers in Moscow previously had expressed confidence the army's birthday celebration today would coincide with an announcement that the Mannerheim line had been broken and Viipuri, key objective of 85 days of warfare, had fallen.

The Red army, largest in the world, continued hammering at Finnish defenses by land and air although the communique said a blizzard had restricted aerial warfare to reconnoitering flights.

WOULD MAKE STATE ROUTES THROUGH WAYS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Designation of all state highway routes through cities as thoroughfares and compulsory "stop" marking of all cross streets was advocated today in the interest of traffic safety.

"All sections of streets or highways upon which are operated street cars, motor coaches, trackless trolleys" and similar vehicles also would be made through streets under a tentative bill approved by the Ohio Traffic Safety council's legislative sub-committee.

The state highway department and cities would share responsibility for complete and uniform marking of thoroughfares to conform with those of 30 other states under a traffic code.

The bill would permit cities to designate through streets in addition to state routes.

MURDERER DRAWS BLACK BALL, GOES TO DEATH

By The Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 23—Francisco Mamani, convicted of lynching a man who robbed him, must die because he drew a black ball from the "anfora reos" (criminal vase).

Mamani and Julio Zegarra were convicted of killing Domingo Quispe, who was reported to have robbed Mamani and set fire to Zegarra's home.

Under Bolivian law when two persons are convicted of one murder they must draw lots to determine who dies for the crime. The draw was held in court yesterday.

ELECTION BOARD ROW REACHES HIGH COURT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—A dispute between Trumbull county Democrats over appointment of an elections board member reached the supreme court today. Filing of a mandamus suit was delayed temporarily, however, because the petition was not on the proper size paper.

Counsel for the LeRoy Marceau faction brought the suit to compel Secretary of State Earl Griffith to name Mrs. Margaret O'Neill of Girard to the board. A faction headed by William B. Kilpatrick is seeking appointment of Herbert L. Fisher of Warren.

PRESIDENT SEES SPORTS PROGRAM ON CRUISER

Contests Mark Washington Birthday Observance.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD THE U. S. S. LANG, Feb. 23—Crew members of President Roosevelt's vacation fleet celebrated Washington's birthday with a day-long sports program.

The Cruiser Tuscaloosa remained anchored off a Costa Rican island for the third successive day. The Tuscaloosa and its attendant destroyers, the Lang and the Jouett, flew pennants in honor of the holiday but omitted the navy's usual 21-gun salute so that the island's wild life would not be disturbed.

The President started the day with a fishing expedition, he and his party landing two small fish and three big gannets. Later he and his aids judged boxing bouts.

Mr. Roosevelt jokingly questioned the qualifications of Brig Gen. Edwin M. Watson to judge one of the bouts in which one of the fighters was named Watson.

Watson (the fighter) won the decision.

FIRST FRENCH AIR ACE AWARDED DECORATION

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 23 — France's first war "ace" was decorated today for having shot down four German planes.

Sergeant Edouard Sales won a citation and the croix de guerre. The official journal said his fourth victim fell in flames after he had chased the Nazi plane 12 miles into German territory.

SEIZURE OF U. S. MAIL DEFENDED BY BRITAIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 23 — Britain's reply to the United States' protest against the allied blockade of German exports was reliably understood today to be a defense of the blockade as a reprisal for alleged German violations of the rules of war at sea.

The reply was handed yesterday to Herschel Johnson, United States charge d'affaires, for forwarding to Washington. Its contents have not been officially disclosed.

Authoritative British sources said they were at a loss to account for the "belated" stir in the United States over published accounts of a bayonet-point search of the American clipper at Bermuda Jan. 18 for mail censorship.

VATICAN TO SEND ENVOY INTO POLAND

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 23 — A Vatican news service said today it had been announced in Berlin that Monsignor Cesare Orsenigo, Papal nuncio to Germany, would go shortly to Poland to observe religious conditions there.

The news service said the proposed trip resulted from a special meeting of cardinals at the Vatican.

The Polish embassies to the Holy See and Italy recently issued reports charging the Nazi secret police and other authorities of the German-occupied section of Poland with persecution and atrocities allegedly aimed at extermination of Catholic Polish inhabitants.

HEARINGS SET TUESDAY ON OHIO HYDRO PLANTS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23—Army engineers from Huntington, W. Va., and Cincinnati will conduct a hearing Tuesday in Portsmouth, O., on the proposed construction of three hydro-electric dams in the Ohio river at Letart, W. Va., Gallipolis, O., and Greenup, Ky.

Attending will be Majors J. D. Arthur, district engineer at Huntington; Fred Bass and L. A. Pick, the latter aide to Col. E. H. Marks, division engineer.

Major Bass said today the hearing would only sound out regional sentiment regarding the proposed structures, in line with a composite study of navigation and power elements, ordered a year ago.

Appropriations, if any, must await action of the next congress, he added.

CHISELER IN JAIL

Cooking School To Teach Saving Steps in Kitchen

"Am I tired tonight? I've been in traffic all day," says the typical business man, sniffing hungrily in the direction of the dining room.

That weary home-comer might be surprised and unbelieving if his wife complained about the heavy kitchen traffic, the endless right and left turns between sink and stove.

Mrs. Smith

The Marion Star has been checking up on that year-around household traffic, and will bring an "expert in step-savers" to The Star auditorium for four days, Feb. 27 through March 1. This open forum, free to the community, is intended to be more than a modern school for cookery.

The Star's understanding home economist, Mrs. V. Elsner Smith, knows all about those miles of steps and the hours of discouragement and the mountains of "left-overs" because she has blended practical experience with thorough training and personal investigation. She has specialized in a job that the majority in her large audiences have acquired without study, and she is eager to pass on her discoveries.

Mrs. Smith has untied household knots for thousands of women in many states. Gracious and sympathetic, she has built up an amazing storehouse of valuable suggestions for solving such fundamental home problems as laundry, budgeting, meal planning, table service and food preparation for invalids and finicky youngsters."

WASHINGTON DAY MARKED BY DISABLED VETERANS

Program Given at Armory; Americanism Talk Heard.

A program in observance of Washington day was given at a meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, at the Armory last night. A potluck supper was served. Chapter members were guests.

The program opened with a prayer led by Miss Violet Unroe of Prospect, a pledge to the flag and "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by the group.

A talk on Americanism was given by Mrs. Esther Koeppen, chairman of the auxiliary's Americanism committee. Miss Lucille Bowen recited the "American Creed" and the following readings were given: "Our Inalienable Rights," Miss Anna Marie Lawrence; "My Old Tin Hat," Mrs. Louise Unroe of Prospect; "American by Choice," Mrs. Minnie Bowen; a tribute to Abraham Lincoln by Mrs. Koeppen, a musical selection, "Meal Time at the Zoo" by Miss Claire Koeppen, a closing prayer led by Miss Violet Unroe and "America" sung by the group.

CALLS NEWSPAPER ADS BEST FOR LOAN BANKS

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Newspapers provide the "best" advertising medium for savings and loan banks, the American Savings & Loan Institute, holding its mid-winter conference here, was told by a Massachusetts banker.

Francis E. Ingalls of the Lincoln Cooperative bank of Lynn, Mass., advised the 500 delegates yesterday "we need to make newspaper advertisng a live and vital force in our savings and loan programs."

He urged adherence to truth in all sales promotion literature.

PHILANTHROPIST DIES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23—A life of philanthropy made possible by Standard Oil riches ended with the deaths of Mrs. Laura Eliza Briggs, 91. She was an original stockholder of the Standard Oil company, and her late husband, Pierson D. Briggs, was purchasing agent for the concern. The daughter of William and Martha Price, she was born at Eagleville, Ashtabula county. She died at her Cleveland Heights home after an illness of several years.

MARION, GALION RESIDENTS ON MANSFIELD PROGRAMS

Diana Rose Sakel of Marion, Gene Andrews of near Marion and Avis LaVerne Forrest of Galion will take part in amateur programs over radio station WMAN at Mansfield tomorrow.

The first two, both 10 years old, have passed auditions and will appear on a program scheduled for from 1 to 3 p. m. They will sing and do novelty dancing. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Sakel of 267 Pearl street and Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews of Marion R. D. No. 4.

The Galion entry will be on between 10 and 11 a. m. tomorrow. She was first prize winner in a previous broadcast. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Forrest of George street and of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hartman of Galion.

The Mansfield station operates on 1370 kilocycles.

UNION, TRADE HEADS INDICTED

U. S. Accuses 50 Firms and Individuals In Building Cost Investigation.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—A federal grand jury investigating the millwork industry here today indicted 50 firms, associations and individuals, including the president and nine other officers of an A.F.L. carpenters international union, on charges of conspiracy to maintain high costs.

The investigation of the millwork industry was one phase of a general inquiry into the construction business in the Pittsburgh area as part of the government's nationwide antitrust campaign.

The jury previously had indicted 57 organizations and individuals in the electrical contracting industry who were fined for a conspiracy to defraud the government through collusive bidding on public works projects.

The indictment today charged that labor contracts negotiated by the A.F.L. united brotherhood of carpenters and joiners limited the use of the union label by manufacturers in restraint of interstate commerce. It also charged the union conspired with two millwork trade associations, the Lumber Institute of Allegheny county and the Master Builders association, to control and fix millwork costs here.

Millwork includes window sash, frames and doors.

Officers of the international union named in the indictment are William L. Hutcheson, president; S. P. Meadows, vice president and Frank Duffy, general secretary, all of international headquarters and the following members of the general executive board.

William J. Kelly of Pittsburgh; T. M. Guerin of Troy, N. Y.; Harry Schwazier of Cleveland; Roland Adams of Jacksonville, Fla.; R. E. Roberts of Dallas, Tex., A. W. Muir of San Francisco, Calif., and Arthur Martel of Quebec, Can.

The other defendants named were the two trade associations, seven of their officers, two district affiliates of the international union and eight of their officers, and 21 individuals and companies who were members of the trade groups.

EAGLES AUXILIARY PLANS FOR EUCHRE CONTESTS

Three applications were received and three candidates obligated at a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles last night. Announcement was made that the auxiliary euchre teams will play the city firemen teams Monday night at the Eagles hall. The women also will be guests of members of the aerie at a chicken dinner next Thursday night at 6:30 as the result of a euchre contest. A potluck supper for members and their families was planned for March 7.

Earl Thomas, county representative, was a guest speaker. Completing the program which was on observance of "Americanism Week," was a solo by Mrs. Helen Lattimore. Refreshments were served by the social committee headed by Mrs. Bertha Anthony, chairman. A benefit party will follow the March 14 meeting.

METHODIST AID SOCIETY MEETS AT COFFEY HOME

Mrs. George Ulsh was in charge of the program when Mrs. Arthur Coffey entertained members of Circle No. 9, Ladies Aid society of Epworth Methodist church at her home on Uhler avenue yesterday afternoon.

The program included a paper by Mrs. Richard Parish, and [illegible] pictures shown by Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Carl Fisher, and a reading by Sandra Sue Coffey of Kenton. Mrs. O. R. Peters was in charge of devotions. A contest award was won by Mrs. [illegible] Clum. Guests included Mrs. Carl Coffey and daughter Sandra Sue of Kenton and Mrs. Lester Ireland of Marion.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Charles Frye and Mrs. Chester Gettis.

Rumania Lucky If She Keeps Free of European War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If Rumania is able to keep from being dragged into the European war she will be mighty lucky.

There's more than meets the eye in the shoving and pulling which King Carol is undergoing between Germany and the Anglo-French alliance in his efforts to keep his country neutral and preserve its sovereignty.

France and Great Britain—self-appointed but very welcome guardians of Rumania's welfare—lately have taken to pushing Carol into Herr Hitler, after the manner of schoolboys who are trying to force a scrap between two of their colleagues.

It is obvious that these rough tactics might easily tantalize the Nazi fuehrer into taking a swing at Carol, thereby starting the Balkan conflagration which most observers have been expecting.

Oil Causes Trouble

The immediate cause of Rumania's trouble is her oil, which is vital to Germany for prosecution of the war, and which the allies very naturally wish to keep from the Nazis. It is this situation which the Anglo-French brotherhood is exploiting, although Hitler's need of this petroleum is so great that he must fight for it if he can not get it by peaceful means.

A few days ago Rumania made a new agreement with Germany whereby the reich would get a large increase in oil shipments. Immediately the allies intervened and, in addition to the economic pressure, reminded Carol that they might have to reconsider their guarantee to protect Rumania against aggression.

As a result Carol, in order to placate the allies, has placed a ban on the export of aviation gasoline to Germany, this being one of Nazidom's pressing needs. Hitler is insisting on full delivery, which brings us up to the present critical moment.

Situation Is Serious

Things look so precarious to King Carol that he is rushing his already extensive military preparations. By March first he will have 1,600,000 men under arms—one of the biggest armies in the world. Troops and equipment are being hurried to the frontiers.

Meantime recent developments in the allied position are most illuminating.

They have massed great numbers of troops in the Near East and, in conjunction with their powerful ally, Turkey, are prepared to defend not only the entire eastern Mediterranean zone but the Balkan peninsula from invasion by either Russia or Germany.

This is a back-handed way of saying they are ready if necessary to open up a new great war-front in southeastern Europe, equally useful for operations against the Bolshevists or the Nazis.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HEAR TALK BY MRS. F. C. SMITH

A potluck luncheon and all day meeting was held by the Republican Women's club yesterday at headquarters with 30 in attendance. Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, wife of Congressman Smith talked informally and told of a reception given for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taft in Washington, D. C., recently. Mrs. Paul Brollier of Mt. Gilead, Eighth district state central committeewoman, talked on the women's activities in Morrow county, and Mrs. Cora Rexroth gave a patriotic talk. Plans were made to sponsor a benefit vegetable soup dinner March 7 from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

BAPTISTS OF DISTRICT AT PROSPECT MEETING

Pastors and congregations of churches in the Marion Baptist association joined for the annual Day of Prayer observance yesterday at the Baptist church in Prospect. Throughout the day talks were given by the various pastors on the themes of "Prayer" and "Evangelism." A basket dinner was served at the noon hour.

BOOKKEEPER IS SUICIDE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23 — A will and a typewritten request that he be buried at Fostoria were prepared before a bullet ended the life of Raymond W. Davis, 53-year-old bookkeeper, in his apartment. Coroner E. E. Smith said his death apparently was a suicide.

AS BYRD SHIP NEARED GOAL

IN ART MYSTERY

Milton B. Logan (above) was bludgeoned in a motor car in New York as his partner in a bankrupt art gallery sat next to him. The partner, John Gerry later committed suicide. As the mystery of the art galleries unravelled, it was disclosed that Gerry had taken out $150,000 in insurance on Logan's life.

HOME OF DETECTIVE IN SHOOTING CASE GUARDED

Officer Reports Receiving Threatening Messages.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23—While the Geauga county grand jury hears evidence in the case of Joseph Battista of Canton, charged with the shooting of a Geauga county farmer, a guard protects the suburban Maple Heights home of Elwood Smith, private investigator who brought about Battista's arrest.

Smith asserted he had received telephone threats, but declined to elaborate on his reason for hiring a guard.

"The guard is here only when I'm not home," he said. "I think I can handle anything that might happen myself when I am home."

Battista is accused of shooting and wounding Robert Fenwick, 32-year-old farmer, in the leg and abdomen after Fenwick ordered hunters from his property last fall. Fenwick said Smith was employed after Geauga county authorities failed to locate his assailant.

Smith said he had heard reports of intimidation of witnesses summoned for the grand jury investigation, and added:

"There is undoubtedly an undercurrent of fear in the county, and were it not for fear probably a lot more people would come forward and talk."

MRS. LIVINGSTON OF NEAR RICHWOOD IS STRICKEN

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, O., Feb. 23—Mrs. Blanche Livingston, 58, wife of Joseph Livingston of six miles south of Richwood, died at White Cross hospital in Columbus at 8:30 this morning following a major operation. She had been ill for about a year and was taken to the hospital a week ago.

Mrs. Livingston was a native and lifelong resident of Union county.

Surviving with the husband are three children by a former marriage, Harold Bown of Chicago, Mrs. Harold Winter of Richwood and Mrs. R. D. Rosenberger of New Castle, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. Elta McAllister of Richwood.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday at Pharisburg Methodist church and burial will be in Oakdale cemetery at Marysville. Friends may call at the Livingston home.

AMERICANISM PROGRAM HEARD BY MARION ELKS

A program on "Americanism" was given at a meeting of Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, last night. "Americanism Week" is being sponsored by the Marion lodge, and the speaker last night was Earl N. Hale. Mr. Hale spoke on "Getting Acquainted with George Washington."

Walter D. Moore, chairman of the Americanism Week activities, gave a short talk explaining the purpose of the observance. One application was received. A memorial service was conducted for Carl F. Miller, a member who died this week. The program hour was open to the public.

Several officers and members will go to Bucyrus Sunday to plan for a district conference and to attend a meeting of the Elks' Harding Memorial committee. At the latter meeting plans will be discussed for the Harding Memorial pilgrimage here in the spring.

MARION YOUTH FINED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Charles Henry Coy, 18, of 380 Milburn avenue pleaded guilty in municipal court today to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs by Judge Hazen.

He was arrested at 11:10 last night on George street east of Main after State Patrol Corporal W. D. Mariner and Patrolman David Weissert had pursued him from Center and Leader streets. They said he rounded the corner at Silver and Leader at high speed, then went east on Silver at about 65 miles an hour.

The officers also said he had no driver's license. He was directed to get one at once.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM GIVEN AT CHURCH CLASS MEETING

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Feb. 24

ACCORDING to an impressive array of planetary aspects, this should be a lively and stirring day, even to the point of being devastating and disintegrating, unless there is much sagacity and judicious handling of sudden and imperative situations that may arise. Complete upheaval is possible in the launching of major projects, which have every promise of success. Elements of duplicity call for wisdom and tact rather than hasty speech or quarrels. Sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of revolutionary change and surprising success and satisfaction if they manage with tact, policy, and restraint of tongue and pen. Bad temper and impetuosity make no headway, and carelessness with signatures may be hazardous. Duplicity menaces. But when such perils are wisely managed, there should be good results and perhaps thrilling adventure and romance.

A child born on this day may have great capacity for success, being intuitive, original and creative in novel directions. But it may suffer from its own unguarded tongue and temper.

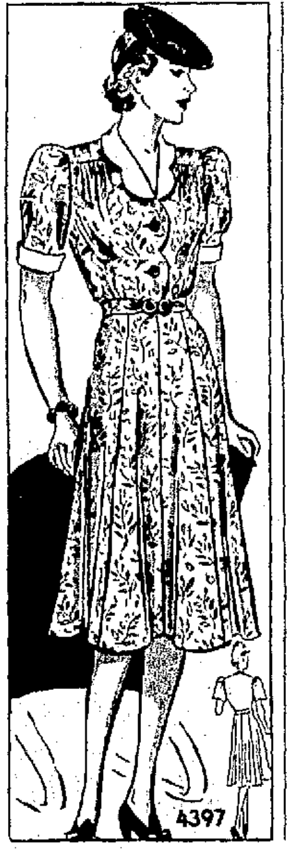
Of French invention is a tire for motorbuses that prevents entering or leaving passengers being shocked if an electric power circuit becomes grounded.

An air conditioning compressor unit has been constructed that has a cooling capacity equal to the melting of 306 tons of ice in 24 hours.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

SCALLOP-EDGED MATRON FROCK



PATTERN 4397

First vote of every smart woman goes to the shirtwaister! This one, which is more attractive than ever, is Anne Adams' Pattern 4397. Stitch it up in, say a printed silk foulard or a sunny new cotton. The shoulder yokes neatly hold in the soft fullness through the bodice. That gay scallop-edged button opening is an effective device for breaking up your "width-across." Let double panels trim both the front and back skirt, to give tall-and-slim lines. The sleeves are either long, short and flared, or with cuffs which, together with the pretty scalloped collar, may be in clear contrast. Use the Sewing Instructor's short-cuts.

Pattern 4397 is available in misses' and women's sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric and ½ yard contrast.

Send Fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name address and style number.

Capture spring enchantment with a wardrobe selected from our Anne Adams spring pattern book. It interprets the gay and lovely new styles in colorful clothes for tots, 'teens and twenties...slim-line dresses for the business girl...smart frocks for the woman-past-forty...an exquisite costume for the bride and appealing new fashions in prints and cottons ... all available in easy-to-sew patterns. Book Fifteen cents. Pattern Fifteen cents. Book and Pattern together, Twenty-five cents.

Fractional Declines Featured as Trading Moves at Snail Pace

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 23—Stock quotations shuffled lower in hangdog fashion today.

With long moments clipping between transactions toward the fourth hour fractional decline captured the ascendancy on the scoreboard.

Only a couple of well known issues Loft and Seaboard Air Lines saw much action and that was all downhill. Others in the dip included U S Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Caterpillar, American Telephone, Eastman and Union Carbide.

Among the resistors to this trend were Du Pont, Fajardo Sugar, Douglas and Harvester.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities gained, with wheat at Chicago and elsewhere reaching new highs due to a large extent to a temperature drop in winter wheat areas.

Depressed in the uneven curb were Gulf Oil, Niles Corp and Wright Hargreaves.

A cheering aspect of the industrial picture was the report of increased automobile manufacture. The industry produced 102,870 cars this week compared with 95,050 last week and 75,860 a year ago.

At the same time there was the more pessimistic note furnished by freight carloadings which, in the week ended Feb 17 declined contraseasonally. This was due mainly, it was said to shipping delays caused by extremely bad weather.

The past fortnight's strength of commodities was a bright spot in the trading scene although the absence of opportunity for a long-range view on world demand for these products made dealers cautious in their commitments.

WHEAT LOSES HALF OF EARLY ADVANCE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb 23—After advancing almost two cents to the best levels in seven weeks wheat prices lost more than half of the gain today.

Forecast of cold weather and war news stimulated buying but this was offset by selling partly associated with liquidation of grain that has been under loan. At some markets redemption of loan wheat was reported substantial although selling was in small lots. Statements of government experts and statistics indicating the war has produced no improvement in farm exports attracted attention.

Wheat closed ⅛-½ cent higher than Wednesday, May $1.08-1.05⅞, July $1.04⅛-⅜; corn ⅛ off to ⅛ up, May 57¼-⅛, July 57⅛; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Cash wheat was ½-1 cent higher, the basis steady to ¼ lower. Receipts totaled 27 cars. Corn was steady and the basis also was steady. Receipts were 141 cars, with 15,000 bushels sold to shippers and 50,000 booked to arrive. Oats were steady.

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Feb 23—The demand for domestic wools in Boston was very slack today. Mills appeared to be quite fully recovered for current operations. Topmakers were receiving only scattered orders for small quantities of wool tops which they were delivering from stock. Boston wool houses were making little effort to move greasy combing domestic wools because in the past few weeks they have found that users who were not in the market for wools were not attracted by price reductions. On the other hand, when wools were urgently needed the prices paid were at or close to quotations.

Cong. Smith Hits Continuation Of Trade Treaties, Cites Gold Buying

Sharp criticism of the proposal to continue reciprocal trade treaties with foreign countries is made by Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion in an address prepared for inclusion in the Congressional Record, a news dispatch from his office at Washington reports.

Excerpts from his address follow:

"I am opposed to the continuation of the reciprocal trade treaties. First, because they involve a delegation to the executive of powers which the Constitution specifically places in the hands of congress. Second, there is not a scintilla of evidence that the trade treaties are having any beneficial effect. On the contrary, there is considerable indication that they have the reverse effect.

Charges Abuse of Power

"Powers granted here are unquestionably being used beyond their ostensible purpose, the regulation of tariff rates. They are used to make treaties, properly so called, which the Constitution provides can be done only with the consent of the senate.

"I have made some preliminary calculations but not sufficiently to warrant any final conclusion. So far as I have gone, however, I have not found the gains claimed by the treaty proponents. But whatever may be the results of such a study they can prove nothing to justify any claims made for the continuation of the treaties.

"It seems rather remarkable that the most important factor which now has to do with our foreign trade has received no consideration whatever. I refer to the wild gold-buying program."

Congressman Smith then lists the percentages of increase in the U. S. export trade with various countries during 1939 and accompanied them with figures on this nation's gold purchases from them. For example, he listed a 56 per cent increase in export trade with France from 1932 to 1939, the figure for the latter year being $181,825,000, and then pointed out this country had bought $1,839,900,000 in gold from France at $35 an ounce.

Raises Question

After listing corresponding figures for other countries, he asserts, "Here is a good place for them (American manufacturers) to do a little studying to see whether it has been the reciprocal trade treaties that has helped them, or whether it has been something else.

"Then, having learned that it is our gold-buying program and our lending policy that are holding up their export trade, perhaps we will have made some headway in clearing up what is, to say the least, a bad situation. Or will an attempt to convey this ugly information to them only cause them to dig their heads into the sand a little deeper?"

AVIATION BOOSTERS STUDY PLANS FOR JUNE AIR SHOW

Additional plans for the Marion air show, which has been tentatively set for June 16 under the joint sponsorship of the Marion Aviation Boosters club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were discussed last night when the Boosters club met at the Central Community House on East Church street.

Three new members were admitted, Walter Wick of Waldo and W. E. Woods and Dick McClure of Marion.

Movies of the recent pig roast, taken by Charles Morbitt assisted by Dominic DiMaggio, were shown.

Surprise Program Features Weekly Luncheon Meeting of Kiwanis Club

A surprise program arranged by wives of members of the Marion Kiwanis club was a feature of a luncheon meeting of the club at Hotel Marion yesterday.

When club members went to the hotel for their regular Thursday meeting they were greeted by the Kiwani-Queens who had secretly planned to attend. The women had charge of the program.

Mrs. Carl E. Danner presided and Mrs. Elandes Miller served as chairman of the Kiwani-Queens' reception committee. Mrs. F. L. Thomas spoke the invocation.

The program included a humorous skit, "Two Coons In a Wreck" by Mrs. Burr Reed and Mrs. C. W. Snyder, and a novel contest in which members of the club were called upon to dress store window models with an assortment of women's apparel. "Contestants" drafted for the stunt were Dr. Frederick W. Rea, John J. Huebner and Probate Judge Oscar Gast.

The club's "silent boost" contest, through which a gift and theater tickets are given away at the weekly luncheon meetings, was in charge of Mrs. J. F. Smythe and Mrs. F. S. Morris. Mrs. Jay Vaughan led group singing for which Mrs. John L. Case played the piano accompaniment.

Arrangements for the party were in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Danner, chairman, Mrs. D. N. Bohyer, Mrs. C. E. Williams, Mrs. Jay Newell, Mrs. Douglas Torrance, Mrs. Harry L. Dowler, Mrs. C. W. Snyder, Mrs. Burr Reed and Mrs. Elandes Miller. Out-of-town guests were D. M. Roller of Mansfield, lieutenant governor of the fourth Kiwanis district, W. B. Ford, president of the Mansfield Kiwanis club, M. W. Hieber, past president of the Mansfield club, William Hoover of Detroit, Mich., Charles Oscherman of Cleveland and Mrs. E. J. Bayer of Jersey Shore, Pa.

Couple Known In Marion To Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr and Mrs Samuel Loyer of near Lima, known in Marion and this vicinity, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, Feb. 27

Mr. Loyer, now 71, and Mrs Loyer, 68, were married Feb. 27, 1890 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs Layfayette Bowsher, a mile northeast of their present home.

The late Rev. C. H Eckhardt, then pastor of St Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran church of Shawnee township, officiated Mr. and Mrs. Loyer first lived on a portion of the Mr. Loyer's homestead and then moved to their present home in southwestern Shawnee township.

Mr. Loyer served as a township trustee and on the Shawnee township board of education Three children, Mrs Joseph R Bowsher and Mrs. W. D Mayer, both of Shawnee township, and Samuel S Loyer, Radnor school superintendent, will help the celebrants observe the anniversary

A family dinner will be held Tueday followed by open house at the Loyer home from 2 to 10 p. m. A sister of Mr Loyer, Mrs. William Meyers, resides at 157 Superior street.

Your Income Tax

DEDUCTION FOR INTEREST

Amounts paid or accrued within the taxable year 1939 as interest on indebtedness are deductible, with certain exceptions from gross income in determining net income Such items include interest on borrowed money to defray personal expenses, and on money borrowed for the purchase of real or personal property. If a person owes money on a lien or mortgage note on his home, the amount of the interest may be deducted. Indebtedness, however, need not be evidenced by lien, judgment, or mortgage to make the interest on it deductible Frequently indebtedness is evidenced only by a note

Interest paid on indebtedness incurred in the purchase of obligations (other than obligations of the United States issued after September 24, 1917, and originaly subscribed for by the taxpayer), the interest upon which is wholly exempt from Federal income tax, is not deductible. Interest paid on loans on life insurance policies is deductible provided the amount of the loan is not used for the purposes previously referred to in this paragraph

Interest paid on behalf of a friend or relative where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payor is not deductible. In such cases the amount is the same as a gift

As interest paid is deductible, so interest received is taxable (except interest on obligations of a State, Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia; or obligations of a corporation organized under act of Congress, if such corporation is an instrumentality of the United States; or the obligations of the United States or its possessions to the extent provided in the acts authorizing the issue thereof). All such amounts, including interest received on bank and savings deposits, must be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income

Claridon and Caledonia Win Way into Finals by One-Point Victo

Pleasant and LaRue Nosed Out in County Tourney Semi-Finals.

CLARIDON and Caledonia, conqueror and runner-up in league play, emerged as finalists in the Marion county Class B tournament, each chalking up one-point victroies in hard fought semi-final duels last night at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium.

Claridon held a 23-22 edge over Pleasant, last year's tourney winner, assuring a new crown-wearer when the title battle is played Saturday night. Caledonia squeezed out a 32-31 win against LaRue, giving the eastern entries complete domination of the tourney trials.

The finalists will lock horns on the same court at 9 tomorrow night, shooting everything in their bid for the 1940 tournament title. Pleasant and LaRue, still in the battle for third place, drop into the consolation division and engage in semi-finals Saturday afternoon.

Prospect, Martel Win

In last night's consolation frays, Prospect downed Green Camp, 30-21, and Martel defeated Agosta, 20-14. Martel's string of victories in the consolation bracket comes as a surprise since Coach Carlyle McClellan's cohorts managed to win but two of eleven league starts.

Saturday's complete schedule is: consolation semi-finals matching Prospect vs. Martel at 1 p. m., Pleasant vs. LaRue at 2 p. m., with the winner battling for third place in the consolation final at 8 p. m. The Claridon-Caledonia title duel will be played at 9 p. m.

County cage fans were supplied with thrills aplenty in last night's nip-and-tuck semi-finals. Claridon held a narrow but decisive margin during the first half of the tilt with Pleasant. The league champs saw a 13-8 intermission lead dwindle away in the third and the count was 18-up going into the final.

Dunkin Trio Hot

Work of LaRue's Dunkin trio, Glenn, Gerald and Gene, almost spelled disaster for Caledonia. Coach Eugene Haas' quintet trailed 8-2 at the quarter but cut the deficit to 15-14 at half-time. They shoved Caledonia in front 28-23 during the third period. A trio of goals by Glenn Dunkin cut Caledonia's lead to a single point, 30-29, in the last two minutes. Ott flipped in one for Caledonia to cancel Gerald Dunkin's closing second fielder. The three Dunkins collected 24 points for LaRue, Glenn had 15, Gerald 7 and Gene 2.

Meet Greg Rice: Two-Miler

GREG RICE

His Great Races with Don Lash Are Becoming Features.

"My work comes first."

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—A barrel-chested little fellow with a boundless spirit for racing has come up to form half of a two-mile rivalry that just about matches those sensational mile duels of the big indoor tracks.

He's five-foot-four Gregory Rice, stout-hearted Hoosier whose long distance battles with the great Don Lash are becoming feature attractions.

During his days at Notre Dame, Rice frequently competed in big track meets and is now in the post-graduate class. He was named to this year's A. A. U. All-America team at the 5,000-meter post.

In college he raced against his opponent, but now he begins to race with Old Man Time. In the Millrose games he ran two miles in 9:07.6 by careful timing and Lash couldn't beat it. At Boston this year he did it in 9:01 and beat Lash. Then Lash beat Rice, Rice beat Lash and so on until now they are a natural pair of foes.

Rice loves track but he says "My work comes first." He is in the cost department of a South Bend utilities company, and "commutes" between his track meets and the office.

He had longed to get a whack at the 1940 Olympics but the war stopped all that and now he's looking ahead to 1944 or whenever the next Olympics are held.

GRISSOM YEARNS TO HURL AGAINST REDS

Says His Trade to Yanks Was "Kick Upstairs."

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23—Lefty Lee Grissom today viewed as a "kick upstairs" the trade that took him from the league-top Reds to the world champion Yankees, and promised dire things if and when the twain shall meet again.

Arriving by air from a newly-acquired California ranch, the eccentric portsider paused enroute to training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., "D— tired," he drawled, "and not feeling much like talking."

Nevertheless, between rounds of entertainment at the home of friends, he said he "didn't mind the kick a-tall, a-tall," and confided he had socked "most" of his World Series money, "the losers' share, that is, in a 56-acre ranch that's well stocked with hogs, not dudes."

Grissom, who won 9 and lost 7 for the Reds last season, declared his "soupbone's feeling great. Better'n it did in 1937 when I had 'em all talking."

Refusing any prediction of games he expected to win for Marse Joe McCarthy, the lantern-faced Californian looked forward, he said, to meeting his former team-mates in spring training competition.

"Sure and how!" he exclaimed. "Won't I burn 'em in! And wouldn't I love to pitch against 'em next fall, too! Because the Reds sure will be the club to beat."

EARLY BASEBALL CALL

Marion Team To Get Early Start On Season's Plans.

Members of the Marion Colored Athletic club will meet Sunday afternoon to discuss plans for the coming baseball season, Manager George W. LaVette announced today. The meeting will be held at 3 p. m. in the club rooms at 686 Hecking street. Prospective members of the playing roster, who will be given tryouts later, are invited to attend the session.

Takes Hard Way

George Glamack of North Carolina's Tarheels (above) who pours in uncanny one-handed shots from far out and often misses miserably on short set-ups, is setting a dizzy scoring pace in the Southern Conference. Towering six feet five, George averaged 18 points a game in the first 10 conference battles. His scoring difficulty is due to his near-sightedness. He comes from Johnstown, Pa.

HARDING TO WIND UP CAGE YEAR TONIGHT

To Invade Bucyrus; Irish Face Lancaster, Then Aquinas.

Scholastic cagers of Marion will warble a duet of swan songs tonight, Harding closing its season with a visit to Bucyrus and St. Mary ringing down the curtain on the home schedule by entertaining Lancaster St. Mary at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium.

Two games are on the local parochial card tonight, the Irish varsity tackling a club that laced them in mid-season for the featured contest. Eighth and ninth graders compete in a 7 p. m. prelim. St. Mary has one road game remaining, a return engagement with Columbus Aquinas tomorrow night.

Harding will face a crew of confident Redmen in tonight's jaunt to Bucyrus. Coach Alex Kish and followers of the Bucks are of the opinion that their favorites should rate an even chance to win. That opinion, however, isn't shared by the locals, who seek to sew up second place in the North Central Ohio conference.

Midway Five To Play Ralph's in "Ghost" Battle

Ghost basketball, latest innovation to hit Ohio cage courts, will make its debut in Marion on a doubleheader program scheduled for Sunday night at the Armory on West Church street.

Ralph's Snappy Service and Midway Restaurant basketball teams will don the special luminous suits for the "blackout" contest. The exhibition contest is set for 8 p. m.

The ghost game, promoters insist, will be the same as a regulation contest — except that the Armory will be completely blacked out and the usual 10-minute quarters will be halved.

For fans who prefer their basketball straight the second contest looms as a natural. Ralph's team will tackle the North Electric Mfg. Co. squad of Galion. In an earlier meeting at the Richwood independent tournament Galion won, 28-26, in an overtime period. The Electricians boast a record with only one blemish, that a loss at the hands of Bliss College of Columbus. The game will start at 9 following the ghosting party.

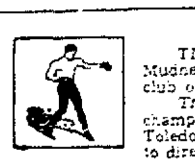
Tiffin Gets New Manager



TIFFIN, O., Feb. 23—Myles Thomas, who managed the Toledo Mudhens of the American Association last season, will pilot the Tiffin club of the Ohio State league this year.

Thomas is no newcomer here, having led Tiffin to the league championship in 1936. He left in 1937 to become head coach at Toledo and was named manager after Fred Haney quit the Mudhens to direct the St. Louis Browns.

Rayburn, Williams and Co. To Renew Feud at Shovel Arena

Will Battle Angelo-LaCrosse Team Monday Night; Jap Coming for Prelim.

Billy Rayburn and Al Williams, those two intrepid ringsters who don't know when to call it quits, have again invited disaster—agreeing to a return engagement with Martino Angelo and Gil LaCrosse for the main attraction on Monday's wrestling show at the Steam Shovel sports arena.

Rayburn, Williams & Co., rather than step out of team mayhem while they reign as conquering heroes, took up a challenge of their foes and intend to prove they can whip the Angelo-LaCrosse duo any day in the week.

Would Settle Issue

Crux of the argument this time is the final fall of last week's imbroglio, which closed with Rayburn winning over LaCrosse by disqualification. Rayburn had been left alone against his two husky enemies, when they tossed him from the ring and floored his partner, Williams.

Rayburn managed to get out from behind the eight-ball by punting both foes to the mat simultaneously and pinning Angelo before LaCrosse could recover. Rayburn had the best of it against LaCrosse, but was floored when he was tripped by Angelo, who was loafing about the outside of the ring.

Still voicing their objections as they made their way to the dressing room, Angelo and LaCrosse exchanged blows with several spectators. The altercation progressed in the dressing room with no less than a quartet of bystanders attacking the pair of grapplers. One 200-pounder who tackled Angelo and came off second best remarked, "that little guy certainly knows how to handle himself."

Winner Take All

When the quartet takes the ring Monday each duo will be striving to win the entire purse. In accepting the challenge Rayburn and Williams insisted that the bout be on a "winner take all" basis.

Higami, Japanese ju jitsu expert, introduced here more than a year ago but not recently a visitor to Marion, returns for the special one-hour preliminary. Higami will trade holds with the fast-stepping westerner, Andy Tremaine of Phoenix, Ariz.

AMBERS-DAVIS BATTLE ON AT GARDEN TONIGHT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—You'd hardly expect Lou Ambers, who meets roughneck Bummy Davis in Madison Square Garden tonight, to be singing—but that's exactly what he's doing.

Very few fighters sing when they're called upon to face the roughest, toughest hombre to come out of Brooklyn in years, but Lou has a baby due soon.

Lou has trained hard for this fight—his thirteenth in Madison Square Garden, and he's a 1 to 2 favorite to win from the Flatbush pool hall protege.

South Yields Good Crop of Rookies

BABE YOUNG

Norman (Babe) Young, Knoxville's slugging first sacker, pictured here, may be the Southern Association's most likely contribution to the majors this year. He goes to the Giants and may fill Zeke Bonura's shoes. Jim Bagby, who pitched well for Boston's Red Sox in 1936, gets another chance after a season with Little Rock. These two lead a long list of good southern players coming up this year.

4 GAMES PLAYED IN RICHWOOD TOURNEY

Delaware, Galion, Upper Sandusky, Magnetic Springs Win.

Four games were staged during last night's round of warfare in the independent basketball tournament at Richwood. Carson's Dairy of Delaware defeated the Delaware Eagles, 25-24, the victors playing the last 12 minutes with but four men after several regulars were banished on fouls. North Electric Mfg. Co. of Galion lambasted Marseilles, 30-14; Magnetic Springs defeated Plumwood of Madison county, 39-29 and Wyandot Vaults of Upper Sandusky tripped Circleville, 33-27.

Next Thursday's games are, Richwood No. 2 vs. Fisher Brass of Marysville, Bibler Vaults vs. Ralph's Snappy Service (both Marion teams). North Electric of Galion vs. Hyatts, Richwood No. 1 vs. Sunnerove. Scores by quarters follow:

Carson Dairy	8	7	3	7—25

MT. GILEAD, SPARTA READY FOR COUNTY TITLE GAME

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 23 — Mt. Gilead and Sparta will meet in the title-deciding battle of Morrow county annual scholastic basketball tournament Saturday night as the result of their victories in semi-final encounters last night at Iberia. The championship game, set for 9 p. m., will be played on the same court.

Mt. Gilead walloped Chesterville, 63-41, and sparta downed Cardington, 41-30, in semi-final duels. Consolation games last night saw Edison defeat Iberia, 41-38, while Johnsville disposed of Marengo, 35-26. Tonight's consolation games are Chesterville vs. Cardington, Johnsville vs. Edison.

CLEVELAND BOUTS SET

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23 — Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh, former world's middleweight champion, will meet Willie Muldune of Cleveland in a 10-round bout here Thursday night. Jorge Brescia, who claims the South American heavyweight title, will tangle with Buddy Knox of Dayton in another 10-rounder.

SANDUSKY, O., Feb, 23 — The Kelleys Island basketball team was quick in getting here to play in the Erie county basketball tournament last night, but not so fast on the court. The team arrived by plane, due to the dangerous condition of the Lake Erie "ice bridge." Birmingham eliminated the Islanders in the first round, 21 to 8.

"Don't Learn to Take It"

Spike Webb, Navy Boxing Coach, Advises Fighters To Learn To Avoid Punches.

The boxer who prides himself too much on being able to "take it" is a first class chump in the opinion of Spike Webb, U. S. Naval academy boxing coach and one of fistiana's most famous figures.

Spike, pictured above checking up on one of his "Navy Junior" boxers in a special class for sons of staff members at Annapolis, declares fighters should learn "how not to take it."

"The fighter who consistently lets his chin get in the way of an opponent's fist is slowly tearing down his brain—and with his brain, his body."

Spike believes every American boy ought to know how to box—scientifically. No shrinking violet, Spike has coached some of the top notchers, pros and amateurs.

WOMEN BOWLERS TO RESUME TOURNAMENT

State Meet To Enter Third Round Saturday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—The Ohio women's bowling tournament goes into its third week Saturday, and the big question facing the girls is: "Can Blanche and Hazel do it again?"

Blanche Zerneckel and Hazel Richards of Canton have hung up a record that belongs in the "it can't be done" department. They hold the state doubles title, won the last two years with identical scores—1157.

Sunday noon they take the alleys again, determined not only to make it three in a row, but to better their score.

Four dozen five-woman teams will bowl Saturday.

This week's action will be provided by Lorain, Akron, Canton, Barnesville, Elyria, Sandusky, Cambridge, Fremont and 21 Toledo teams.

The present leaders:

Class A: Team, Reidlinger Funeral Home, Cincinnati, 2669; doubles, Dora and Lora McMillen, Cincinnati, 1113; singles, Millie Klier, Cleveland, 632; all-events, Millie Klier, Cleveland, 1765.

Class B: Team, Queen Beauty Salon, Columbus, 2446; doubles, Violet Perry and Verne Wongrosky, 1060; singles, Esther Goodpastor, Dayton, 581; all events, Marjorie Bressler, Toledo, 1629.

YALE OUTSWIMS OHIO

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23—Yale won seven of nine events to defeat Ohio State's swimming team here yesterday, 55 to 20. Co-Captain Al Patnick won the dive for the Buckeyes and John Higgins the 220-yard breaststroke in 2:23.7.

SANTA ANITA DERBY WON BY LONG SHOT

Sweepida Nets Owner $43,850; Few Bets on Nose.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23—California finally got a winner under the wire in one of its super-special horse races as the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby pot fell to a long shot, Sweepida, in an upset yesterday that left the home state supporters happy—and a little dazed by it all.

The 3-year-old, bred by H. C. Hill on his modest ranch near Stockton, Calif., flashed a winner from wire to wire in the mile and one eighth derby that netted the owner $43,850.

Maryland-bred, California-owned Royal Crusader, of Walter Hoffman of nearby Ventura, finish second; Weigh Anchor, bred in New York and owned by a New Yorker, William Ziegler Jr., ran third, while Charles S. Howard's Mioland, an Oregon colt, was fourth.

Sweepida paid $68.60, $21.20 and $10; Royal Crusader $23 and $13, and Weigh Anchor $6.60.

When Sweepida came romping home a length and one quarter to the good, the big tote board at the finish line showed only $2,072 of the $178,424 wagered on the race was on the winner's nose.

The 38,000 persons looking on had been swayed, in the main, toward such big names as Gallahadion and Tough Hombre, Augury, Sir Jeffrey and the like.

AUTOIST FOUND GUILTY ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Mrs. Edith Anderson, 45, of 675 West Center street was found guilty of a charge of driving while intoxicated yesterday after a hearing before Municipal Judge Hazen. Sentencing was deferred pending filing of a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Anderson was arrested some time ago and had been granted several continuances of her case, court officials said. She was represented yesterday by Attorneys Theodore Ochs and E. D. Spohn.

An Englishman has invented a merry-go-round for children that is revolved by a wooden propeller driven by a one horsepower gasoline engine.

BIGELOW WILL SEEK OFFICE

Pension Advocate To Run in Order To Have Access to Radio.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23—Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati preacher-politician, proposed today to seek "a state office" to make his movement for higher old age pensions an active issue in this year's election campaign.

Bigelow was the author of a proposed constitutional amendment, defeated last November, to guarantee monthly income of $50 to single persons more than 60 years old and $80 to couples.

Cincinnati city councilman and former congressman, Bigelow refused at a Springfield rally to name the office he would seek but said he would announce his candidacy in Dayton Sunday.

He admitted that "I do not care to win," but would become "a state candidate" merely to have access to the radio. He said he would force all candidates to voice their stand on old-age pensions "so that you can all protect yourselves with your vote this fall."

"They have listed old age pensions as too dangerous to talk about on the radio," Bigelow remarked, "but they will sell time to candidates for office, so I must become a candidate to talk to the people."

He launched in Springfield a drive to collect funds for his radio campaign.

Bigelow, a Democrat, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor. Earlier this month he declared that the "half million voters" who favored his pension plan "could without doubt" decide the Democratic nominee for that office at the May primary.

Meanwhile, former Gov. Davey steps back into the political arena tonight to speak in behalf of Byron B. Ashbrook, Democratic nominee for 17th district congressman in next Tuesday's special election. Davey and former Lieut. Gov. William G. Pickrel will address audiences in Newark and Coshocton.

Davey was to have spoken in Mansfield Saturday, but Richland county Democratic leaders objected and the engagement was shifted to Ashland. Political friends of the former governor felt the rebuff keenly but for the sake of harmony let the matter drop.

In Millersburg, Carl A. Hopkins, former unemployment compensation bureau executive, announced his candidacy for state senator from the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th districts. He is a Democrat.

YOUTHS HELD FOLLOWING THEFTS OF GASOLINE

Four youths were arrested by police shortly before midnight last night in connection with the theft of gasoline from automobiles parked on a lot in the rear of the Kresge 5-10-25-cent store on West Center street. Three of the boys, ages 15, 16 and 17, were taken to the county juvenile home pending a hearing before Juvenile Judge Gast. The fourth, who is 18 years old and comes from Manchester, Mich., was placed in city prison pending investigation. The young boys are from Monroe and Manchester, Mich., and from Waldo.

Police said the Michigan boys have been around this vicinity for some time as itinerant workers. One of them had an automobile belonging to his parents.

In addition to taking gasoline, the boys are suspected of pilfering autos of parts, police reported.

GETS NEW COAT

Showing the first signs of wakening from its winter hibernation, the New York World's fair prepares for the 1940 opening by giving the Trylon a new coat. The old covering was damaged by the wind.
